

CRITICS COMPROMISE ON LAOS

... Senate Votes For $350 Million Limit On Spending

Washington (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to set the first congressional limit on U.S. spending in Laos, approving a ceiling at the budgeted level of $350 million after war critics dropped efforts for a sharp cut.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, agreed to support the limit after its sponsor, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., narrowed its application.

The limitation placed in the $21-billion military procurement bill applies to economic and military aid plus Central Intelligence Agency support of both Laotian and Thai irregular forces trying to keep Laos from falling to North Vietnam.

It excludes all U.S. bombing activities — attacks in and around the Communists' Ho Chi Minh supply trail and those in support of Laotian forces in the Plain of Jars and in northern Laos.

Approval was by a roll-call vote of 67 to 11 with opposition coming from a handful of war opponents who considered it could be interpreted as an authorization for U.S. action in Laos and from administration backers opposing any restrictions.

Symington said, "It's better to have a half a loaf than none at all."

Kissinger Lobbies Via Phone

The Senate acted in the face of strong opposition by the Nixon administration to any limit. Senate sources said Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, phoned Stennis several times during the day to register his objections.

Symington proposed originally a spending limit of $200 million excluding only the bombing around the Ho chi Minh trail.

After a series of conferences, Symington agreed to raise the limit to $350 million and omit any ban on the $143 million budgeted for bombing in northern Laos.

In addition, the amendment includes provisions requiring the Nixon administration to keep Congress informed of actual expenditures in Laos on a quarterly basis and provide written explanations of future requests for funds.

Fulbright Fears Interpretation

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he fears the amendment, though designed to limit spending in Laos, would be interpreted as an authorization for U.S. involvement there.

But Symington said "for the first time we would have direct controls over future operations."

Stennis said in endorsing the revised amendment "it doesn't add any power to our legislative control but it does set a pattern here of operations . . . for the members of the (Armed Services) committee to consider" in the future.

The Mississippi Democrat said also, however, "it gives a legislative recognition that these funds are needed."

In an earlier roll call Monday, the Senate voted 65 to 4 in favor of an amendment by Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., to grant members of the armed forces an additional $381 million annual pay raise on top of the $2.4-billion increase included last month in the draft-extension act.

In other action on the procurement bill the Senate in voice votes approved an amendment by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., finding the test of a new aircraft concept in Vietnam, and rejected an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., seeking alternatives to the construction of an entirely new Air Force bomber.

The Goldwater amendment would authorize $14.5 million to pay for the test of a Short-Takeoff and Landing (STOL) gunship in the Vietnam war zone during the next dry season.

Fraud Charges Mount As Fast As Thieu Vote

Saigon (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu claimed Monday his overwhelming majority in re-election was a defeat for communism in South Vietnam and a victory for democracy.

But charges of fraud mounted as swiftly as results were posted in Sunday's uncontested balloting.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Duong Van Minh, who at first challenged Thieu but withdrew, remained silent. They had charged that the election was rigged right from the start of the campaign.

The State Department's first reaction, voiced by spokesman Charles W. Bray III in Washington, was that "we are pleased so many voted in Vietnam despite efforts to disrupt the election." This was a reference to enemy terrorist attacks.

Thieu Given 91.5%

The Vietnamese National Election Center gave Thieu 91.5% of the ballots cast. His press secretary estimated the vote against Thieu at 5.5%. No accounting was given for the other 3%.

"Now, for the moment, we can't say where they are," said government press officer Vu Khanh.

The result was far in excess of the 50% of votes cast that Thieu had said he would regard as a minimum "vote of confidence" to remain in office.

In a radio and television statement described as Thieu's "first impressions" of the voting, the president noted that among South Vietnam's nearly 7.2 million registered voters, 6.3 million — a record 83.7% — had turned out.

He said this showed the people believed the election had a "decisive significance," had demonstrated their determination to abide by the constitution and voted despite enemy terrorism and other acts.

Thieu's new four-year term starts Oct. 31.

Democracy Minor

As the final results were tabulated from 44 provinces, 11 cities and among soldiers in Camp Moc Dua, minor anti-government demonstrations occurred in Saigon and Qui Nhon, but were nothing comparable to the outbursts.

Stahmer Claims ADC Cuts Caused By Medicaid Costs

By United Press International

State Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha, charging the people have the right to know, said Monday cutbacks in the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) program have resulted from increases in costs of care for the elderly.

Stahmer, in an interview, noted the Nixon administration announced ADC payments would be cut using a method termed "ratable reduction" in an attempt to stave off a projected welfare deficit, shortly after the current fiscal year began.

"I for one assumed the action resulted from increases in the amount of money needed for ADC," he said.

Medicaid Costs

But he said recent private talks with state welfare officials, including Welfare Director Lawrence Graham, have shown the financial bind has been caused by increasing Medicaid costs.

The Nixon administration has promised there would be no deficit spending, Stahmer noted, but he said one program should not be penalized to provide money for another.

"I think the people have a right to know this is going on," the lawmaker said.

Most To Medicaid

"If for no other reason than it seems all you hear is that ADC is taking the greatest share of welfare money when in fact the greatest amount is going into Medicaid," he said.

Stahmer said he was not trying to be critical of the Welfare Department in disclosing the information, but he said other ways should be found to finance Medicaid shortages.

The announced ADC cutback went into effect on Aug. 1.

"Wouldn't Be So Bad"

"It wouldn't be so bad if all welfare recipients would be treated equally in this," he said.

"But in this situation we're taking money away from one area to fund a shortage in another," he said.

The lawmaker also said he objected because the money is being taken from a program which the Legislature was asked to increase funding ceilings in order to meet federal ADC standards.

The Legislature approved the increased standards, he said, only to find out now those standards are not being met in an attempt to take care of shortages in other areas.

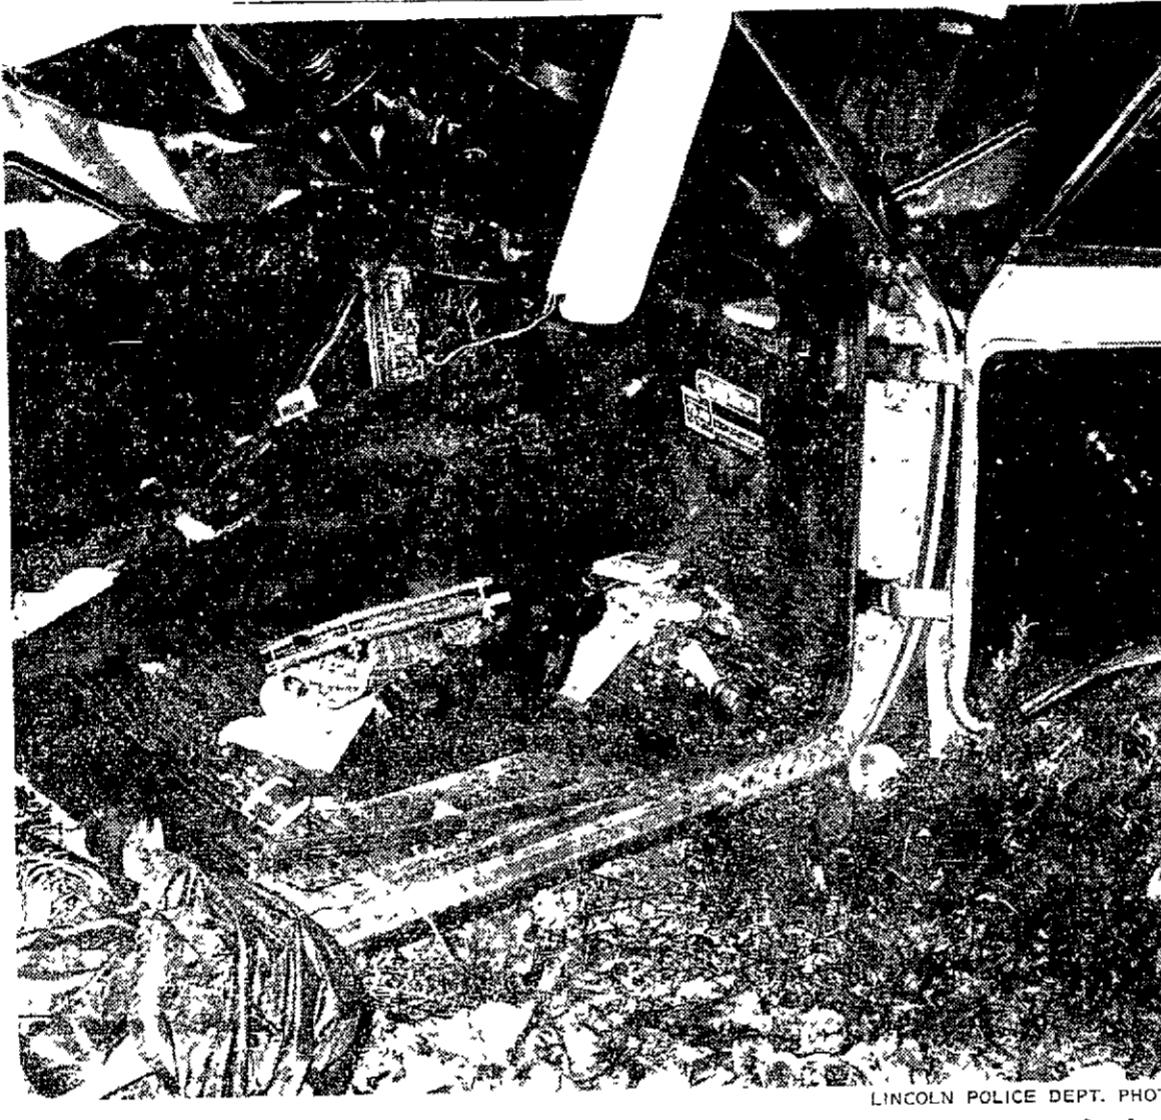

Given Flexibility

Stahmer noted the department was given the fiscal flexibility to do just that by the Legislature. The action was achieved through appropriating a lump sum to the department to administer as it saw fit.

And he said since the department has chosen not to find alternate financing means, he has initiated his own investigation into finding ways of cutting down the money spent on caring for the elderly.

But he emphasized he is not trying to "take away the care that is actually needed."

Several suggestions have been made experts in the field, the lawmaker said, and a major one would be the beefing up of out-patient facilities to cut the numbers of persons institutionalized in costly nursing homes and hospitals.

Daniel Leyden Dies In Crash

A 27-year-old Lincoln man, Daniel Leyden, 1025 C St., was killed Monday night when the vehicle he was driving was in collision with a train near 27th and Leighton, according to police officer Martin Rozen.

Roach said Leyden apparently died instantly when the four-wheel drive vehicle he was driving southbound on 27th was struck in the left side by a Burlington-Northern mail train enroute to Grand Island from Chicago.

The vehicle was torn in two, with the front portion being dragged 140 feet from the point of impact, officials said.

Police said the crossing is protected by flashing signals and a crossarm and that they were all apparently working at the time of the accident.

The engineer of the train was identified as Lewis Sharp, 56, of Pleasant Dale.

Leyden, a service station operator, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leyden, brothers, Gary and Willis, and a sister, Mrs. LaVonne Hohenfeld, all of Lincoln.

Title I Review Team Leader Expects Report In 4 Weeks

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The leader of a U.S. Office of Education team reviewing Nebraska's Title I controversy said Monday the team hopes to complete a report on the visit in about four weeks.

The five-member team arrived in Lincoln Monday and began a series of meetings and tours to review the matter.

"There's going to be a great deal of consultation" in Washington after the team returns there late this week,

Unless restrained by the court, the petitioners contend, the compulsory student fees will continue to be used for political support and advocacy of "particular viewpoints held by the leadership of the defendant ASUN and Student Union" and not necessarily those of the student body politic or the regents.

The suit also asks for an accounting of all expenditures for political activities, including speaker fees and travel expenses, made from the student activity fund during the past five years together with an accounting of mandatory student fees for the support of The Daily Nebraskan.

Included, the petition states, are prostitution, homosexuality and abortion.

The conference includes "materials which are offensive in nature and which have the dominant theme of obscenity and tendency to encourage those attending (the) courses and conferences to immoral behavior which is contrary to the law," Carpenter's petition states.

The University's Board of Regents "did not prudently and reasonably exercise its constitutional and legislative powers to govern, ban and prohibit" the conference, the petition said.

An injunction is required "to prevent the irreparable injury and damage to the students" and other persons who may attend the conference, it was stated.

Carpenter's attorneys are James E. Ryan and P. G. Matt III, both of Lincoln.

Israel Makes Own Missile

By WILLIAM BEECHER

Washington — Israel has started to manufacture modest quantities of a missile capable of carrying a 1,000-pound to 1,500-pound warhead 300 miles or more, according to well-placed American and other Western intelligence reports.

The missile, called the Jericho, is being produced at a rate of from three to six a month, it is believed.

Although U.S. specialists are far from certain that Israel has nuclear warheads, several analysts suggest that the Jericho is too expensive to use to deliver a conventional high-explosive warhead.

"It wouldn't make much sense to manufacture a costly weapon like Jericho merely to carry the equivalent of two or three 500-pound bombs," one official declared. "The decision to go into production strongly suggests Israel has, or believes it could soon have, nuclear warheads for the system."

Pledged Not To Be First

Although Israel has reportedly pledged not to be the first country to introduce nuclear weapons into the Middle East, analysts believe that Israel may have a number of nuclear weapon components that could be assembled quickly in a crisis, for use on the Jericho as well as on jet fighter-bombers.

Israel is not believed to have deployed any of the two-stage, solid-fuel missiles yet. But one ranking American officer said, "We wouldn't be surprised to see it deployed in the next few months."

A number of American officials are concerned that if Egypt and the Soviet Union become convinced that Israel has deployed nuclear-tipped missiles capable of hitting their forces in much of Egypt, in addition to such population centers as Cairo, Moscow may feel impelled to deploy a comparable nuclear missile in Egypt.

With Own Forces

If that should happen, analysts say, the Soviet Union is likely to operate the new missile with its own forces.

The Soviet tactical nuclear missile known by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization code name Scudboard has a range of about 450 miles and is considered the missile likely to be deployed in Egypt.

American and Western specialists on the Middle East believe that the Jericho represents an Israeli effort to deter Egypt and the Soviet Union from contemplating an all-out effort to bomb cities in Israel and destroy that country.

But if deterrence failed and Israeli officials believed that Israel was on the verge of being overrun, these officials say, the Israelis might decide to destroy as many of their enemies as possible in their final hours.

You Can Beat Seat-Belt Buzz

By DAN JEDLICKA

(c) Chicago Sun-Times

You can beat the system.

Federal law requires that effective next Jan. 1, Detroit's automakers must install equipment that causes a belt system to sound if seat belts aren't fastened.

But guess what. Nothing will happen if you don't fasten your seat belt.

I discovered that you can "beat" the belt system after driving a 1972 Lincoln Continental Mark IV. It has a red warning light that went on after I entered the car. (The buzzer device wasn't there, since it's not required until next January.)

The light went off if I just pulled the belt a foot or so from its reel on the left side of the driver's seat. As far as the car was concerned, the belt was fastened. I just tucked it under my left leg and sat on it. I didn't even bother with the belt's right-hand side extension.

Gateway Industries Inc., large supplier of seat belts to Chrysler Corp. and General Motors, confirmed that it's this easy to get away with not wearing the belts. Two large Detroit auto makers said the same thing.

"You don't even have to sit on the belt," said a Gateway spokesman.

"You can pull it out a certain distance and 'wrap' the end of the belt into sort of a knot, and the light and buzzer never will sound."

The spokesman — noting that Gateway is "making the belts and switches and Detroit is doing the (system's) wiring, light and buzzer" — emphasized that one doesn't have to pull the belt out far from its reel because "we must accommodate smaller auto drivers who don't need to pull the belt out far."

"Going To Print This?"

"Oh, no," said a spokesman for a Detroit automaker. "You're not going to print this, are you?"

"Why not? People who don't want to use belts will find out soon enough, won't they? And they'll be paying for the extra equipment involved."

The day before, while addressing 1,500 Drew University students in Madison, N.J., he had pulled out a knife and "sheared off 10 or 20 locks — it was a rejection of the hip culture," he explained.

Hoffman said he had become angry with the current version of the youth movement because "the rock music has gotten bad, the dope lousy. Everytime I turn on the television I see another movie star with long hair. The hip cult has been taken over by Warner Bros."

While still calling for social and political revolution in the United States, Hoffman also advised the assembled young people that they could help bring about some change by working through the ballot box.

But lest anyone suspect him of turning middle class, Hoffman, one of the defendants in the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial, said with a laugh, "I'm not exactly shapin' up!"

Agents rushed the plane and found Susan Giffe, 25, and Downs dead from gunshot wounds. Giffe was fatally wounded from a shot in the temple, they reported.

Wallace and Crump were unharmed.

Wallace, 32, was charged with air piracy and held under $100,000 bond. He also faced a federal kidnap charge.

Friends said Giffe always carried a gun.

Mrs. Giffe, the former Susan Lakich, once talked of marrying a rich man who could "give me the life of a movie starlet," a former classmate said.

Heaped Luxuries

Friends said Giffe heaped luxuries on the well-traveled daughter of a career Army man.

The couple was married three years ago, but friends said she spent almost as much time with her parents as with Giffe.

Mrs. Joseph S. Lakich, the victim's mother, said Giffe called her Sunday night and said, "I am going out of the country and I will be out of your hair. I want to meet Susan just long enough to say goodbye and give her back her jewelry."

The mother said Susan would meet Giffe after her daughter got off work as a switchboard operator at a motel.

She said she put her granddaughter, also named Susan, to bed and lay listening to the radio and waiting for her daughter.

Kicking, Screaming

At that moment, police said, Mrs. Lakich's daughter was kicking and screaming in the back seat of a car Giffe had driven to the airport.

Showers Slow State Harvest

Harvesting operations in Nebraska are still progressing slowly as a result of intermittent showers last week and high moisture grain, the State Federal Bureau of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday.

The Bureau's weekly crop report said strong winds last week caused lodging in some corn and milo fields where stalk rot or corn borer problems had existed previously.

About 97 per cent of the corn crop is matured, the report said. Corn leaves are becoming dry although some farmers are still filling silos.

Potato digging is well under way in western Nebraska.

About 90 per cent of the winter wheat crop has been planted, the bureau said.

Volunteers Combine 100 Acres In 2 Hours

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Adams—Though there were oceans of milo to cut at home, a fleet of 22 combines sailed through the Robert Gottula field here Monday in one great wave of neighborliness.

The log showed some 100 acres cut and trucked in only two hours. Close to 50 vehicles in all participated.

The crash cutting was in behalf of Mrs. Daisy Gottula, whose husband died in a Lincoln hospital Sept. 26. He had been in intensive care for seven weeks suffering from ulcer complications.

"We started lining up a few neighbors just Friday and figured 12 or 15 combines would be pretty good," said Jim Aden, who ramrodded the project along with Ernest Klime. "But it seemed like the whole community just dropped everything and helped."

As volunteers finished the field, located at Adams' north edge, they found a typical farm-style lunch waiting at the city park. Barbecues, bean soup and home-baked pies were supplied by dozens of women.

"We felt this was a wonderful response," said Aden. "It wasn't just a few close friends who came through, but an entire community."

Besides his wife, Gottula, 51, left two children. Karen is a high school freshman and Steven is a fifth grader.

Tecumseh, Neb. (AP) — A 14-year-old Tecumseh, Neb., farm youth was killed in a tractor upset on a country road three miles northwest of Tecumseh Sunday evening.

Johnson County Sheriff Clifford Lacey identified the victim as William Grof, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom N. Grof. He said the boy was riding on the fender of a tractor driven by his cousin, John Grof, when the vehicle overturned and pinned him underneath. The other boy was thrown clear and was unhurt.

The death brings Nebraska's 1971 highway death toll to 341, compared with 314 on this date a year ago.

Lincoln Memorial Park's

GARDEN MAUSOLEUM

Why a Garden Mausoleum?

Many families in the Lincoln area have expressed a preference for the peace of mind that comes from knowing their departed loved ones will rest securely in the permanent protection of clean, dry chambers, or crypts, as if sleeping in the confines of an immaculately kept room. For that reason, Lincoln Memorial Park has expanded its facilities to provide the most beautiful mausoleum complex in the Middle West.

Is mausoleum entombment more expensive?

Considering the savings involved in not having to buy a cemetery lot, an interment vault, or monuments, plus paying for other expenses such as preparation of graves, the cost of mausoleum entombment compares favorably to that of ground burial — particularly now, while pre-construction discounts are available.

Can I exchange property I own at Lincoln Memorial Park for mausoleum crypts?

Yes. Where present property owners wish to exchange their lots and bronze memorials for mausoleum crypts, arrangements can be made for an equitable exchange. Many families have been taking advantage of this opportunity.

May a loved one interred elsewhere be moved to the mausoleum?

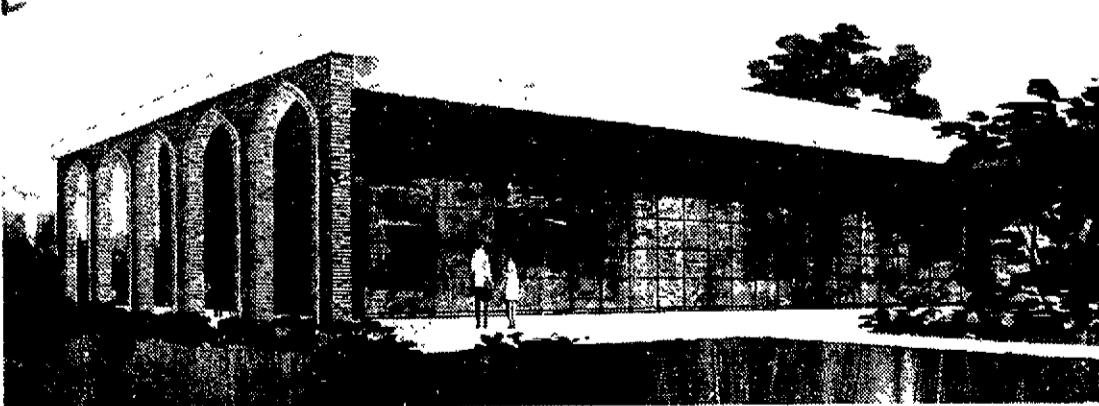

Yes. It's being done, both by families whose departed loved ones have been interred at Lincoln Memorial Park and at other cemeteries.

Is provision made for perpetual care?

Yes. Perpetual Care Funds at Lincoln Memorial Park are being expanded to provide for maintenance of the Garden Mausoleum forever.

Why make plans now?

By reserving space for your family in our Garden Mausoleum now, you can select from choice locations — take advantage of special pre-construction discounts — and, be spared the mental anguish and expense of this inevitable obligation at time of need. Monthly terms available at no interest.

State's Dairy Board Closer To Cost Setting

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

The Nebraska Dairy Products Advisory Board Monday moved one step closer to the goal of setting basic minimum costs for dairy products sold in each of the state's five milk marketing areas.

The process was delayed twice during the day when the committee operated in a closed executive session, ejecting newsmen and representatives of dairy processors and chain stores from the hearing.

With the discount question settled the board began working out a formula which will be used to figure the basic minimum cost of several products.

MacCubbin estimated that it would take two or three weeks to work out the cost figures once the basic formula for establishing the costs had been decided on the issue during the first executive session.

Volume Discounts

The second session dealt with several questions related to the practice of dairy processors who give volume discounts to stores which take milk with a minimum of service from the dairy and the practice of central billing in which a group of stores pay for their milk through a central warehouse which guarantees the stores' payment.

In the open sessions, the board approved having separate minimum prices for volume discounts and for the group store payments in each of the marketing areas.

The procedure was objected to by W. C. MacCubbin, chief of the Dairy and Foods Division of the state Department of Most soybean fields have shed their leaves with 85 per cent of the acreage matured. Dry bean harvesting has been slowed considerably by wet weather.

Potato digging is well under way in western Nebraska.

About 90 per cent of the winter wheat crop has been planted, the bureau said.

State's Dairy Board Closer To Cost Setting

By DOMINICK COSTELLO

The Nebraska Dairy Products Advisory Board Monday moved one step closer to the goal of setting basic minimum costs for dairy products sold in each of the state's five milk marketing area.

The process was delayed twice during the day when the committee operated in a closed executive session, ejecting newsmen and representatives of dairy processors and chain stores from the hearing.

The first executive session dealt with a request from Gilette dairy of Omaha for an additional buffer area or a change in the boundary of the present milk marketing areas. Apparently the board made no decision on the issue during the first executive session.

Volume Discounts

The second session dealt with several questions related to the practice of dairy processors who give volume discounts to stores which take milk with a minimum of service from the dairy and the practice of central billing in which a group of stores pay for their milk through a central warehouse which guarantees the stores' payment.

In the open sessions, the board approved having separate minimum prices for volume discounts and for the group store payments in each of the marketing areas.

The procedure was objected to by W. C. MacCubbin, chief of the Dairy and Foods Division of the state Department of Agriculture. "I feel we may have created a monster here that is impossible to administer," HE SAID.

In addition to the problem of figuring the actual amount of the discount there is the problem of defining just what the discount should apply to and which stores should get the discount. The board left the problem of definition to the Department of Agriculture.

With the discount question settled the board began working out a formula which will be used to figure the basic minimum cost of several fluid products.

MacCubbin estimated that it would take two or three weeks to work out the cost figures once the basic formula for establishing the costs had been worked out by the board.

The board then will review the prices and ask for comments from the dairy processors before making the prices official.

The officers reported Mark walked into the street in front of the Alma Lutheran Church in Mead and was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Esther Carlson of Mead. Authorities said no charges are planned.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Is it fair? Is it good policy? Those are the two basic questions to be answered in regard to the matter of giving employees back pay raises after the current wage freeze ends. It is a big question and many people are jumping on the band wagon for a retroactive pay raise the middle of November.

From a selfish point of view, there isn't any question of how most people would react, including this writer. Most of us would take a retroactive pay raise if we could get one, as we are pleased to accept any financial rewards an employer is inclined to give out.

It is difficult, however, to see either the wisdom or the equity of such an action. What it would mean is that anyone who would have gotten a raise in pay since Aug. 15 would get the amount of that raise up to Nov. 13 after the new economic program goes into effect this fall.

That means a large number of working people would be getting a substantial sum of money in one large lump. It would be the money they would have gotten if no wage freeze had been in effect the past few months.

It is argued that the working people are entitled to this money, that it was money built into the business and industry of the nation and belongs to the employees. Thus, it is said that it would not be fair for companies to have this money as a windfall.

The argument is advanced more forcefully in public than in private employment. This is because public employees are paid out of tax funds and most tax rates have been set to reflect an increase in salaries shortly after Aug. 15. If the taxes are collected for a wage increase, it is said, then that is where such income should be spent.

This, too, is difficult to buy. A number of things are important to consider here, both in terms of equity and good financial or economic policy.

If the purpose of the freeze were to slow down or stop inflation, which it was, then it makes no sense to give retroactive pay raises after Nov. 13. To do so would mean that the battle against inflation was fought on only a temporary three-month basis.

Following that, we adopt a program that gives inflation a substantial shot in the arm. From this kind of policy point of view, the retroactive pay raise deal looks like a highly questionable one.

If the American people were willing to make a personal sacrifice in terms of their wage rate for the sake of beating down inflation, why would they now want to undo what ever good has come of that sacrifice? It was obviously never intended that people would get after Nov. 13 what they couldn't get after Aug. 15 and that is the way it ought to stand.

Then, there is the matter of equity. Has the wage freeze meant a windfall for business and industry? We are sure that it has for some business and industry but it has not been for all of it.

One large retail chain has said that the price and wage freeze has cut into its profits for the period of time involved. What about the business or industry that put wage hikes into effect prior to Aug. 15 but were planning a corresponding increase in prices after Aug. 15?

Are we going to say that, in those cases, the employee has to give back his increase to make the thing come out even? Further, there is the matter of price increases as passed on from wholesalers to retailers.

Many industries had wholesale price increases or raw material price increases just prior to Aug. 15. Many of them, because of the price freeze, have been unable to pass along such wholesale increases in their own price structure.

There will undoubtedly be some inequities as a result of the price and wage freeze and the changes that will take place on Nov. 13 but we find that it would be an impossible job to separate all those inequities and make them right. What is done should now be over with and we should go on from here with the most equitable economic program that can be devised.

The Great Chicago Blaze Heads Toward Centennial

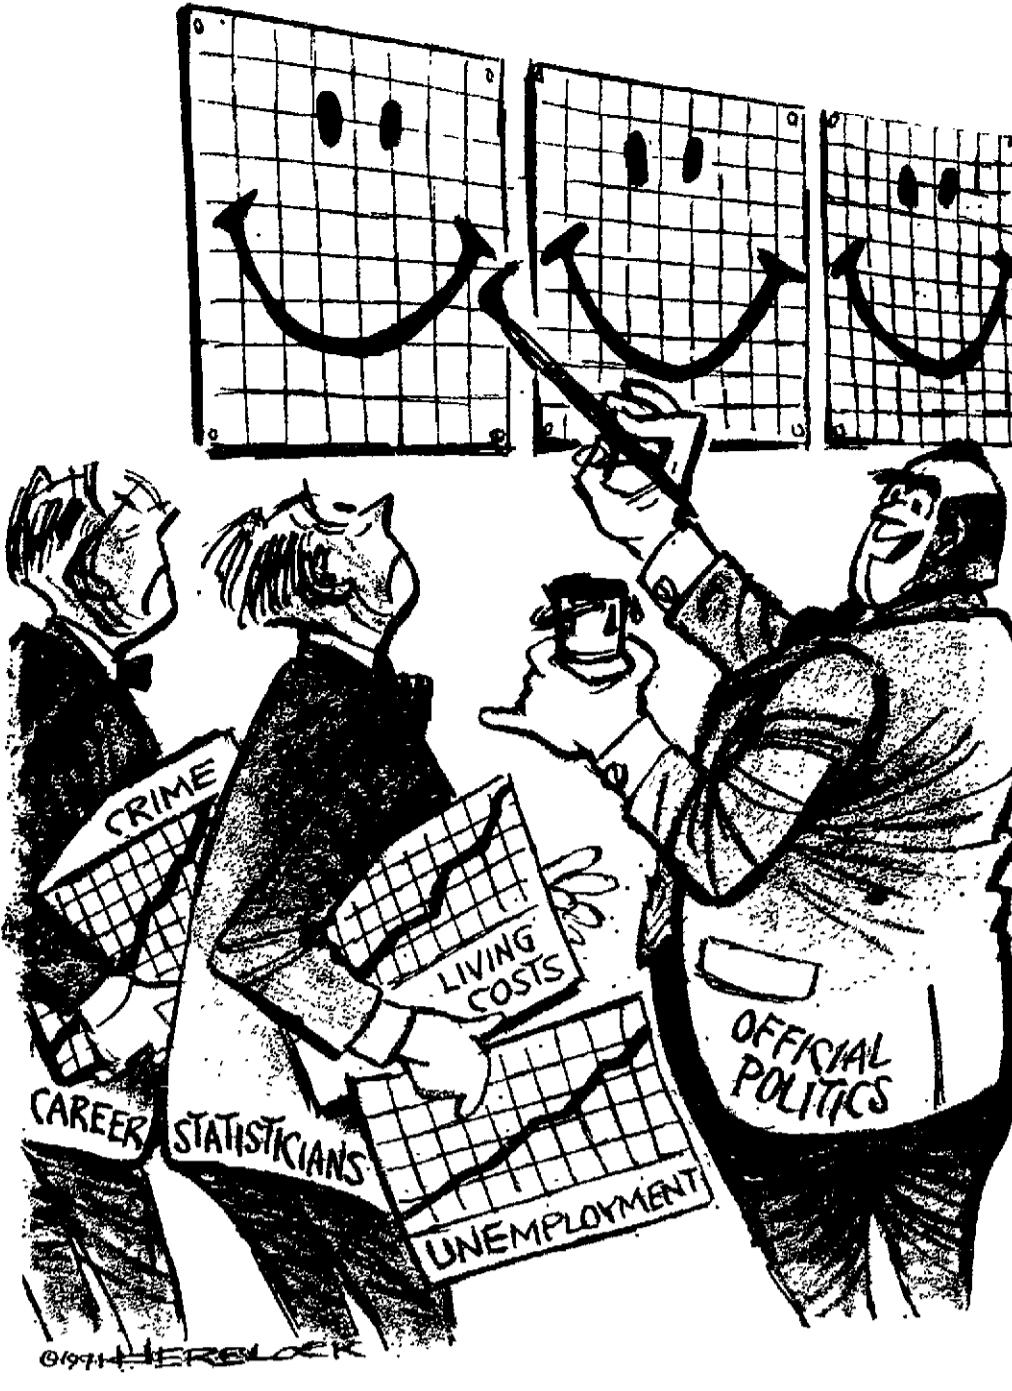

WASHINGTON — In early October of 1871, four blocks of an industrial section of West Chicago burned to the ground. The Chicago Tribune noted that the great number of small fires that fall had numbered residents to the real danger. "We had forgotten," said the newspaper, "that the absence of rain for three weeks had left everything in so dry and inflammable a condition that a spark might set a fire which would sweep from end to end of the city."

The next evening, Sunday, Oct. 8, brought the feared spark. Historians agree it was kindled near the center of town, in the barn of an Irish laborer named Patrick O'Leary. Whether the culprit was Mrs. O'Leary's clumsy cow, a theory widely believed at the time, remains uncertain. The Great Chicago Fire burned for over 24 hours, destroyed three and one-half square miles of central Chicago and left 100,000 people homeless.

The death toll was modest — about 300 from a population of 300,000. Perhaps the fact that so many lived to tell of their night of horror gives this fire its particular fascination. Few people remember a bigger forest fire that killed over 1,000 in Peshtigo, Wis., less than a week later.

Chicago's 185-man fire department had little chance against the natural and man-made features that sustained the fire. Almost all of the city's buildings and sidewalks were wooden, and many residents kept their own livestock and feed in sheds near their houses. Woodworking industries abounded, and blocks of warehouses stored dry goods. "It might be said . . . that Chicago specialized in the production, handling, and storage of combustible goods," wrote Robert Cronin in his book.

A Boost For Downtown

Plans for the rebuilding of the block between 11th and 12th and N and O have been in the works for several years. Monday, the City Council and Mayor Schwartzkopf were presented with a proposal that is innovative and includes features that will go a long way toward solving chronic problems associated with the central business district.

The results of work undertaken by mayoral committees and downtown business interests, the proposal envisions construction of a central bus terminal for the Lincoln Transportation System, a public parking garage for 1,000 cars and restoration of existing retail space. Other options include the possibility of adding several floors of low-cost housing atop the parking and retail areas and crowning the structure with a public park.

The most vitally-needed improvements would be the provision of the large number of off-street parking spaces and the rebuilding of the retail and commercial properties. The lack of adequate parking is one of the major downtown Lincoln problems and while the core area is not as deteriorated as in many cities, there are more deteriorated and vacant buildings than there should be and the trend needs to be reversed.

No ordinary tax funds would be involved in the project, which would be financed through municipal revenue bonds to be retired through income from the parking garage and by hoped-for federal grants. Another attractive feature of the proposal is that present property owners would continue to hold title to the land and — assuming agreement is reached — after destruction of the present buildings and completion of the new project, would have the option of returning to the block and occupying equivalent space. This would maintain the tax base and would circumvent any possible legal difficulties involving the city's renting space to private business.

Few could doubt that such a project is needed. This proposal is still in the "picture" stage, even though a great amount of work has been undertaken to bring it this far.

Ambitious the project may be, but we hope all the questions are answered and the multi-purpose building becomes a reality. It will be a boon to downtown Lincoln.

Abbie Advocates 'System'

At first we thought it was a giant put-on, Abbie Hoffman getting a hair-cut and telling people to register and vote. After all, Abbie is one of the greatest put-on artists around. And then we had second thoughts about it — maybe Abbie came home. And then again...

Hoffman, Yippie leader and one of the Chicago Seven group alleged to have planned the disruption at the 1968 Democratic convention, told a university audience this weekend that "it's a super idea to register and vote."

"Perhaps it is possible to have a socialist revolution that supports the needs of the people and to do so peacefully through electoral change," Hoffman said. Pretty sound advice, if Abbie would have ended it right there.

But then Hoffman itemized the reasons behind his startling conversion: "Long hair has become one affection of children of the rich, rather than a form of honest protest . . . the rock music has gotten bad, the dope is lousy."

So that's what made him say it — a bad trip on "lousy dope." And darn those rich kids anyway, for ruining Hoffman's beautiful thing.

The world too much with him, Abbie Hoffman is "getting my hair cut and going away."

A retreat back to the establishment would not be Abbie's style. We figure he'll try his hand at something new.

Primary Elections Move Into New Prominence; Shift Of Power Came About Through Demo Party

WASHINGTON — Without anyone's noticing, this country had moved remarkably close to choosing one of its presidential candidates by a national primary.

When the Democrats meet in Miami Beach next July, two-thirds of the delegates will have been chosen in primaries. Since voters in 22 states including New York, Pennsylvania and California are to choose their delegates, the primaries have become the crucial battlegrounds.

Up to now, the primaries have chiefly been held in small and medium-sized states — New Hampshire, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Oregon. The results were important for their psychological propaganda and money-raising effects but most of the big state delegations were not directly affected. Political managers used the primary votes as talking points in their bargaining with uncommitted kingmakers. While candidates were pumping hands and trudging through small towns in Nebraska and Oregon, the really important delegations were being put together behind the scenes and by the deals made by a relatively few leaders in the big states like Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Texas. As Hubert Humphrey proved in 1968, if a candidate had the support of key people, he could avoid the primaries and still win the nomination.

That can no longer happen in the Democratic Party. Only if the successive state primaries produce a bewildering variety of winners will the kingmakers have an opportunity to determine the outcome.

By any reasonable standard, the Democratic Party has made long strides toward self-reform.

The danger now is that the best will become the enemy of the good.

There are elements in the party who are prepared to challenge every delegation that is not in full compliance with every last requirement in the new guidelines. These credential contests would lay the moral basis for the cry, "We were robbed!" The dissidents could then go out into the night to assert their purity in a new fourth party.

In reality, the delegate selection process has already been made so democratic that candidates from now through next June face nine months of unremitting, physically exhausting and financially ruinous primary campaigns.

The old methods of choosing most delegates by state committees and state conventions had their evils, but in opting for an endless round of primaries, the Democrats have not found the ideal answer.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Is it fair? Is it good policy? Those are the two basic questions to be answered in regard to the matter of giving employees back pay raises after the current wage freeze ends. It is a big question and many people are jumping on the band wagon for a retroactive pay raise's the middle of November.

From a selfish point of view, there isn't any question of how most people would react, including this writer. Most of us would take a retroactive pay raise if we could get one, as we are pleased to accept any financial rewards an employer is inclined to give out.

It is difficult, however, to see either the wisdom or the equity of such an action. What it would mean is that anyone who would have gotten a raise in pay since Aug. 15 would get the amount of that raise up to Nov. 13 after the new economic program goes into effect this fall.

That means a large number of working people would be getting a substantial sum of money in one large lump. It would be the money they would have gotten if no wage freeze had been in effect the past few months.

It is argued that the working people are entitled to this money, that it was money built into the business and industry of the nation and belongs to the employees. Thus, it is said that it would not be fair for companies to have this money as a windfall.

The argument is advanced more forcefully in public than in private employment. This is because public employees are paid out of tax funds and most tax rates have been set to reflect an increase in salaries shortly after Aug. 15. If the taxes are collected for a wage increase, it is said, then that is where such income should be spent.

This, too, is difficult to buy. A number of things are important to consider here, both in terms of equity and good financial or economic policy.

If the purpose of the freeze were to slow down or stop inflation, which it was, then it makes no sense to give retroactive pay raises after Nov. 13. To do so would mean that the battle against inflation was fought on only a temporary three-month basis.

Following that, we adopt a program that gives inflation a substantial shot in the arm. From this kind of policy point of view, the retroactive pay raise deal looks like a highly questionable one.

If the American people were willing to make a personal sacrifice in terms of their wage rate for the sake of beating down inflation, why would they now want to undo whatever good has come of that sacrifice? It was obviously never intended that people would get after Nov. 13 what they couldn't get after Aug. 15 and that is the way it ought to stand.

Then, there is the matter of equity. Has the wage freeze meant a windfall for business and industry? We are sure that it has for some business and industry but it has not been for all of it.

One large retail chain has said that the price and wage freeze has cut into its profits for the period of time involved. What about the business or industry that put wage hikes into effect prior to Aug. 15 but were planning a corresponding increase in prices after Aug. 15?

Are we going to say that, in those cases, the employee has to give back his increase to make the thing come out even? Further, there is the matter of price increases as passed on from wholesalers to retailers.

Many industries had wholesale price increases or raw material price increases just prior to Aug. 15. Many of them, because of the price freeze, have been unable to pass along such wholesale increases in their own price structure.

There will undoubtedly be some inequities as a result of the price and wage freeze and the changes that will take place on Nov. 13 but we find that it would be an impossible job to separate all those inequities and make them right. What is done should now be over with and we should go on from here with the most equitable economic program that can be devised.

That can no longer happen in the Democratic Party. Only if the successive state primaries produce a bewildering variety of winners will the kingmakers have an opportunity to determine the outcome.

This considerable shift in the focus of power has taken place as a result of the upheavals which occurred within the Democratic Party in 1968. When President Johnson unexpectedly withdrew as a candidate in late March, the delegate selection process was already far advanced in 38 states. These pro-Johnson delegations became free agents which is another way of saying the voters could not control where they went. Most of them began driving to Humphrey but the issue was still in doubt until early June when Robert Kennedy was assassinated.

Kennedy's death made

Humphrey's nomination certain because the power brokers would not accept Eugene McCarthy. Some Kennedy supporters could not accept him either and switched their energies to structural reform. They whipped together a package of reforms which Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa presented to the convention as a minority report of the rules committee.

Movement for reform was already underway in the party.

The credentials committee recommended and the convention approved the setting up of a party commission to improve delegate selection. When the convention went on to adopt Hughes' minority report, the effect was to give this commission specific instructions.

The commission first headed by Sen. George McGovern and more recently by Rep. Donald Fraser of Minnesota has adopted stringent guide lines for the state parties based on those proposed by Hughes in 1968. The unit rule is abolished so minority voices will be represented in the delegations chosen to go to the national convention. The delegates have to be selected in the calendar year of the presidential election to make certain that they reflect the current thinking of the party. Previously, many

In short, dermabrasion isn't a simple little process that you can have done in a free afternoon.

Dermabrasion, however, is being used to remove tattoos, but since a tattoo involves coloring material that has been driven into the skin, the depth of penetration has a bearing on how fully the tattoo can be eradicated. You'd do better to have a dermatologist or plastic surgeon evaluate the prospects in your particular case.

Other methods are removal of the colored area (following by skin grafting) and retattooing with colors that mask the tattoo.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to remove a large tattoo from my chest. Your mention of dermabrasion prompts my inquiry. Could this technique for removing superficial skin blemishes be used for a tattoo? Will you outline various methods for removing a large tattoo?

B.C.R.

First let's qualify your mention of dermabrasion as being for "superficial skin blemishes." It is too intricate a process to use for superficial things like pimples or the like.

Dermabrasion (also called skin-planing) entails the removal of outer layers of the skin, but leaving the deeper layers from which new skin will grow.

It is a procedure of precision: rotary steel brushes or comparable instruments are used to remove as much of the surface as can be spared, without destroying the necessary layers below.

It has to be done under anesthesia, and under aseptic (completely sterile) conditions, else the raw surface would pick up all sorts of infections.

It has to be done in a hospital — or, for small skin areas,

Yes, of course, it is. If you tell me what kind of wine you have in mind, then I could give you a more specific answer — that a quart of what you have in mind contains one-fourth as much alcohol (more or less) than a quart of gin, whisky, or other "hard liquor."

Warden Says Dec. 1 Earliest Date For Start Of Pre-Release Training

By DON BEMAN
United Press International
State Prison Warden Charles Wolff said Monday the earliest an experimental pre-release vocational technical training program for inmates would get under way is Dec. 1.

"We're getting it off the ground," Wolff said, "but still the earliest possible date to actually begin is the first of December."

The one-year experimental program is being funded by a $292,800 grant from the federal government. The total estimated cost of the program was set at $454,000.

Wolff said personnel to man the training center are in the process of being hired and buildings for use are being renovated.

The program requires work-release centers in both Omaha and Lincoln, separate from other law enforcement facilities, and a training center.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Adults Can Master Instrument Within Year

By ROBERT PETERSON

Ever since the first mutterings of the muse in ancient Greece, music has been a reliable source of human satisfaction. In recent years, however, man has been exposed to such a plethora of canned and taped music that he has been discouraged from creating his own.

Among the few forces working to rouse us to a new appreciation of music-making is the non-profit American Music Conference. When I spoke to a representative of this group recently he averred that tense, over-stimulated adults need the soothing therapy and creative satisfaction that a musical instrument can bring.

"Ten percent of the population studied a musical instrument once upon a time," he said, "but most of these people stashed their saxophone or clarinet in the attic years ago and haven't touched a note since."

Do adults have much trouble learning to play a musical instrument? "Not at all," he replied confidently. "Modern teaching methods take most of the drudgery out of learning.

"Teachers used to emphasize those deadly little exercises which you had to repeat over and over. But nowadays pupils start right out playing recognizable tunes.

"Just about anyone who wants to play a musical instrument and who's willing to practice an hour a day can become a fairly good musician within a year. Right now the most popular instruments with

In Omaha, plans for a work-release center for use by inmates enrolled in the training program, along with others in work-release programs, are being worked out with the Salvation Army. A similar center is being planned for Lincoln in the downtown area.

After the first year, it would be up to the state to decide whether the project would be continued under total state funding.

Basic Goal

Its basic goal, the warden said, is to "bridge the gap" between institutionalization and freedom.

"This would start a gradual socialization while the person is in the institution, culminating with his release and job placement as a useful citizen," Wolff said.

Inmates would be phased into the combination training and work-release program during the final months of their prison terms, he added.

Warden Says Dec. 1 Earliest Date For Start Of Pre-Release Training

By DON BEMAN

United Press International
State Prison Warden Charles Wolff said Monday the earliest an experimental pre-release vocational technical training program for inmates would get under way is Dec. 1.

"We're getting it off the ground," Wolff said, "but still the earliest possible date to actually begin is the first of December."

The one-year experimental program is being funded by a $292,800 grant from the federal government. The total estimated cost of the program was set at $454,000.

Wolff said personnel to man the training center are in the process of being hired and buildings for use are being renovated.

Separate Facilities

The program requires work-release centers in both Omaha and Lincoln, separate from other law enforcement facilities, and a training center.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Adults Can Master Instrument Within Year

By ROBERT PETERSON

Ever since the first mutterings of the muse in ancient Greece, music has been a reliable source of human satisfaction. In recent years, however, man has been exposed to such a plethora of canned and taped music that he has been discouraged from creating his own.

Among the few forces working to rouse us to a new appreciation of music-making is the non-profit American Music Conference. When I spoke to a representative of this group recently he averred that tense, over-stimulated adults need the soothing therapy and creative satisfaction that a musical instrument can bring.

"Ten percent of the population studied a musical instrument once upon a time," he said, "but most of these people stashed their saxophone or clarinet in the attic years ago and haven't tooted a note since."

Do adults have much trouble learning to play a musical instrument? "Not at all," he replied confidently. "Modern teaching methods take most of the drudgery out of learning.

"Teachers used to emphasize those deadly little exercises which you had to repeat over and over. But nowadays pupils start right out playing recognizable tunes.

In Omaha, plans for a work-release center for use by inmates enrolled in the training program, along with others in work-release programs, are being worked out with the Salvation Army. A similar center is being planned for Lincoln in the downtown area.

Initially, Wilf said, about 10 inmates would be involved in the pilot program. Under the project, inmates would be given extensive training in the construction and automotive trades.

After undergoing the formal training phase, the inmates would be placed in jobs under the work-release program in either Lincoln or Omaha.

Training Center Site

The training center will be located in the old prison cannery building, adjacent to the prison proper, Wolff said.

The cannery was closed down about two years ago and is being remodeled for its use as an educational center, the warden said.

The federal funds for the experimental program, which Wolff termed one of the most "far reaching" ever tried in Nebraska, came from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

After the first year, it would be up to the state to decide whether the project would be continued under total state funding.

Basic Goal

Its basic goal, the warden said, is to "bridge the gap" between institutionalization and freedom.

This would start a gradual socialization while the person is in the institution, culminating with his release and job placement as a useful citizen," Wolff said.

Inmates would be phased into the combination training and work-release program during the final months of their prison terms, he added.

Hearing Is Set On Rebuilding Project

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln City Council Monday set Oct. 11 for public hearing on a proposal for the rebuilding of the downtown Lincoln block bounded by 11th and 12th and N and O Streets.

The plan calls for a central bus terminal for the Lincoln Transportation System, a public parking garage to accommodate 1,016 cars, restoration of the present retail space in the block as well as possible upper floor expansion for low-cost housing for senior citizens.

Lincoln Attorney Norman Krivosh told the council that the proposed project would not involve tax dollars but would require council action on the following:

—An indication whether the council approves the concept so that formal action may be begun.

—Authorization for the city attorney to make application for federal funds.

—Authorization for the city legal department to begin negotiations with property owners.

—Obtain information from the community on its attitudes toward such a proposal.

—Commitment with regard to a revenue bond issue.

Krivosh said it is estimated that a $4.5 million bond issue would handle the project, and the bonds would be retired through income from the parking garage.

He said that some federal money will no doubt be available, including funds for the central bus terminal. Other sources of revenue include the gas tax funds which may now be used for various purposes as a result of action by the legislature.

Kenneth King of the Lincoln Housing Authority said the housing group was enthusiastic about the proposal.

"It's a change of a lifetime — to be able to acquire valuable land for low-income housing," he said.

He also noted that he thought it would be possible to float their own bonds with no delay in the new structure.

Plans call for property owners allowing the city to remove all present structures on the block which is about half vacant at the present time and then to construct the new facility.

According to Robert Guenzel, present business and commercial establishments on the block would have the option of returning to the block and occupying equivalent space in the new structure.

Expelled

Episcopal Bishop William C. Frey was expelled from Guatemala, along with a Spanish Roman Catholic priest, for what the Central American republic's government said was meddling in political affairs.

'Compensation Best Handled By State'

Chicago — A Nebraska judge Monday told the Commission on State Workmen's Compensation Laws that if the workmen's compensation system is shifted from state to federal control the nation would lose the most effective motivation in existence for good safety practices by industry.

Ben Novicoff of Lincoln, presiding judge of the Nebraska Workmen's Compensation Court, told the presidential commission studying the workmen's compensation system that while the present system has some deficiencies, it serves the best interests of the injured employee.

"The best medical care is obtained under Workmen's compensation because it is to the economic advantage of industry to provide the best."

Novicoff, who is first vice president of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissioners, said the state system should be retained because various regions of the country have different economic problems.

"Wages and the cost of living vary, and compensation should vary," he said. "If the system came under the federal government, control of policy would pass from the close and almost neighborhood concern of the states to the ratified atmosphere of the national capitol, and there would be a loss of flexibility and innovation, and the present motivation for good safety practices by industry."

Novicoff, who was a prime mover in securing passage of improvements in the Nebraska Workmen's Compensation Law in 1970, called on the federal government to make grants to assist states in improving their workmen's compensation acts without penalizing states that have already made progress.

Mayor Given Control Over Bus System Boss

The City Council Monday voted six to one to establish the Lincoln Transportation System as a division of city government under the finance department although there was considerable disagreement over the administration of the new system.

Councilman Fred R. "Bob" Sikyta was the only councilman to oppose the ordinance establishing the system but two other members joined him in opposing four amendments which have the effect of putting the control of the manager and members of the transportation board in the hands of the administration.

Indicating they were opposed to giving primary authority of hiring and firing the manager of the transportation system to the mayor rather than jointly with the council were Councilmen Richard Hartsock, Merle Hale and Sikyta, who each voted against each of the amendments.

The amendments passing by a four to three vote basically remove the provision for joint approval of the mayor and council for appointment and removal of both the transportation system manager and members of the transportation board.

The provisions of the amendments which passed by the narrow margin before the passage of the ordinance included:

—That the manager of the Lincoln Transportation System be appointed by the mayor with the approval of the board and council.

—That the manager of the Lincoln Transportation System may be removed by executive order of the mayor upon the recommendation of the transportation board.

—That the advisory board members shall be appointed by the mayor with the approval of the council.

—That the advisory board members may be removed by the mayor for cause with the approval of city council.

Sikyta said that by adopting the amendments that the problems would be taken off the councilmen's backs and "if there are problems we'll know who to send them to."

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis indicated that she felt that the appointment and removal of board members and hiring and firing of a manager were administrative functions rather than legislative.

Steve Cook said he felt that having the mayor make the recommendations would be "more expedient than having it be a joint mayor-city council function."

In September the Council had

City-County May Develop Joint Plan

A new comprehensive plan for Lincoln and Lancaster County may be developed within the next two years, City-County Planning Director Douglas Brogden said Monday at a meeting with Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and the City Council.

At one of the regularly-scheduled weekly meetings with one of the city department heads, Brogden said that if reasonable concurrence with city goals and policies are achieved the new plan may be developed in 1973; however, he said, otherwise it would be another possible year.

In answer to questions by council members, Brogden said that his department had deviated from a strict interpretation of the existing plan but took into consideration the feelings of the council, Planning Commission and the community as a whole.

Several council members brought up various aspects of the existing plan which they felt needed clarification or modification because of problems which have resulted in specific instances.

Exon Will Defend State's Environmental Planning

Gov. J. James Exon and Regional Administrator Jerome Svore of the Environmental Protection Agency will meet at 9 a.m. Friday in Lincoln, according to John L. Sullivan, aide to the governor.

The meeting was prompted last week by a letter to Exon from Svore in which the Kansas City director called the state's pollution abatement program "considerably" short of the agency's goals.

One of the items singled out for criticism in the letter was inadequate staffing in the Department of Environmental Control. Svore said the state could not do an adequate job with the size of its present staff if all projects were begun.

Another area of disagreement was water quality planning. This area is currently under the supervision of the Soil and Water Conservation Commission; the EPA feels the recently-formed Department of Environmental Control should take responsibility for this program.

Svore said it is essential to have water quality planning under the DEC in order to achieve total environmental planning.

The EPA has the authority to deny Nebraska some $15.5 million in federal funds for pollution abatement. Of this amount, $15.5 million would go toward building secondary sewage treatment plants. The balance would go for air pollution control and solid waste management.

Gov. Exon defended the state's environmental planning by saying Nebraska is one of the few states which have a separate department for the environment. He also said the state has been a leader in pollution control.

Regarding water quality planning, Exon said the Soil and Water Conservation Commission has the expertise needed to do the job.

The superintendent of Roman Catholic schools in southern Nebraska Monday suggested the Nebraska Council of School Administrators is trying to "whitewash the whole (Title I) affair."

"It is interesting that a group will appear on the scene in 1971 and rush to the news media with the declaration that they 'deplore . . . personal abuse' on persons who have not carried out programs according to federal guidelines," said Father James Dawson in a prepared statement.

The NSCA represents several organizations of public school administrators in the state.

Frontier Reply To Charges By State Due By Wednesday

State Aeronautics Director Nicolas Smeloff said Monday that Frontier Airlines has until Wednesday to reply to the Civil Aeronautics Board concerning the state's charges that the airline violated its certification by cutting back service.

Since Sept. 15, Frontier has cut its service between Omaha and Denver via Lincoln, Hastings, Kearney and McCook, while continuing non-stop service between Omaha and Denver. The cutback reduced service to one daily round trip for Hastings, Kearney and McCook.

On Sept. 7, the Aeronautics Department filed for a proceeding before the CAB. The department contends the cut violates Frontier's certificate to operate in the state.

Smeloff said the CAB has appointed a committee to hear the complaint and the reply. The committee could dismiss the complaint, or if it feels it is legitimate it could recommend a CAB hearing.

Smeloff noted that only the CAB can enjoin the airline to continue service.

First in the three-year-old mare division was Ballerina Miss. She also received the Grand Champion Mare trophy.

Starlite Jackie was first in the western riding division and won the Best All-Around Horse trophy.

Sadat Becomes FAR President

Beirut, Lebanon (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat became the first president of the Federation of Arab Republics Monday night, the Middle East News Agency reported.

The selection was made in a meeting with Gen. Hafez al-Assad and Col. Muammar Kadafi, the leaders of Syria and Libya, which together with Egypt make up the federation.

Before Sadat's selection, the three presidents took the constitutional oath to protect the federation, respect its constitution and work for its goals, the agency said.

Israel Wants To Talk

Washington (UPI) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban reiterated his government's willingness to negotiate withdrawal from some of the territory occupied after the 1967 war with Egypt.

Regarding water quality planning, Exon said the Soil and Water Conservation Commission has the expertise needed to do the job.

He said his wife, who was with him in the time, also suffered back injuries and both were hospitalized until Sunday at Dakota City.

"It appears that a couple of the boys from the club have been caught and can't take the heat for their actions so the gang is all going to jump in and whitewash the whole affair by keeping it quiet."

The NSCA represents several organizations of public school administrators in the state.

Lincoln Horses Receive Honors

Two horses owned by Lincoln's Marvin E. Copple Monday received double honors at the 29th annual Ak-Sar-Ben show in Omaha.

First in the three-year-old mare division was Ballerina Miss. She also received the Grand Champion Mare trophy.

Starlite Jackie was first in the western riding division and won the Best All-Around Horse trophy.

County Assessor Recovering After Traffic Mishap

Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer is recovering at home after being hospitalized in Dakota City for injuries received in an accident near sewage treatment plants. The balance would go for air pollution control and solid waste management.

Meyer, who suffered a broken arm and multiple bruises, said that he had stopped to allow a semi-truck to make a left-hand turn when a car stuck his vehicle from behind.

He said the impact pushed his car under the semi-truck, resulting in total loss to his car.

He said his wife, who was with him in the time, also suffered back injuries and both were hospitalized until Sunday at Dakota City.

He was referring to a statement by the NSCA's executive board, issued last week, on the current controversy over administration of federal funds under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

"Why hasn't NCSA been in the news deplored the personal abuse against educationally handicapped private school children who have been deprived of comparable services which should have been coming to them for the past six years?" Dawson said in the statement.

LOSE 20 POUNDS IN TWO WEEKS!

Famous U.S. Women Ski Team Diet

During the non-snow off season the U.S. Women's Alpine Ski Team members go on the "Ski Team" diet to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. That's right—20 pounds in 14 days! The basis of the diet is chemical food action and was devised by a famous Colorado physician especially for the U.S. Ski Team. Normal energy is maintained (very important!) while reducing. You keep "full"—no starvation—because the diet is designed that way! It's a diet that is easy to follow whether you work, travel or stay at home.

This is honestly a fantastically successful diet. If it weren't, the U.S. Women's Ski Team wouldn't be permitted to use it! Right? So, give yourself the same break the U.S. Ski Team gets. Lose weight the scientific, proven way. Even if you've tried all the other diets, you owe it to yourself to try the U.S. Women's Ski Team Diet. That is, if you really do want to lose 20 pounds in two weeks. Order today. Tear this out as a reminder.

5 Cars in Nebraska and Western Iowa

The new cars are here! And Standard has the new car gasoline . . . Amoco. So to celebrate, we're giving away new cars. Especially for people in this area. No purchase necessary. Licensed drivers only. Enter as often as you like. Get an official entry blank at any participating Standard Oil Dealer now. All cars will be awarded from this area. Be a winner! Come in now.

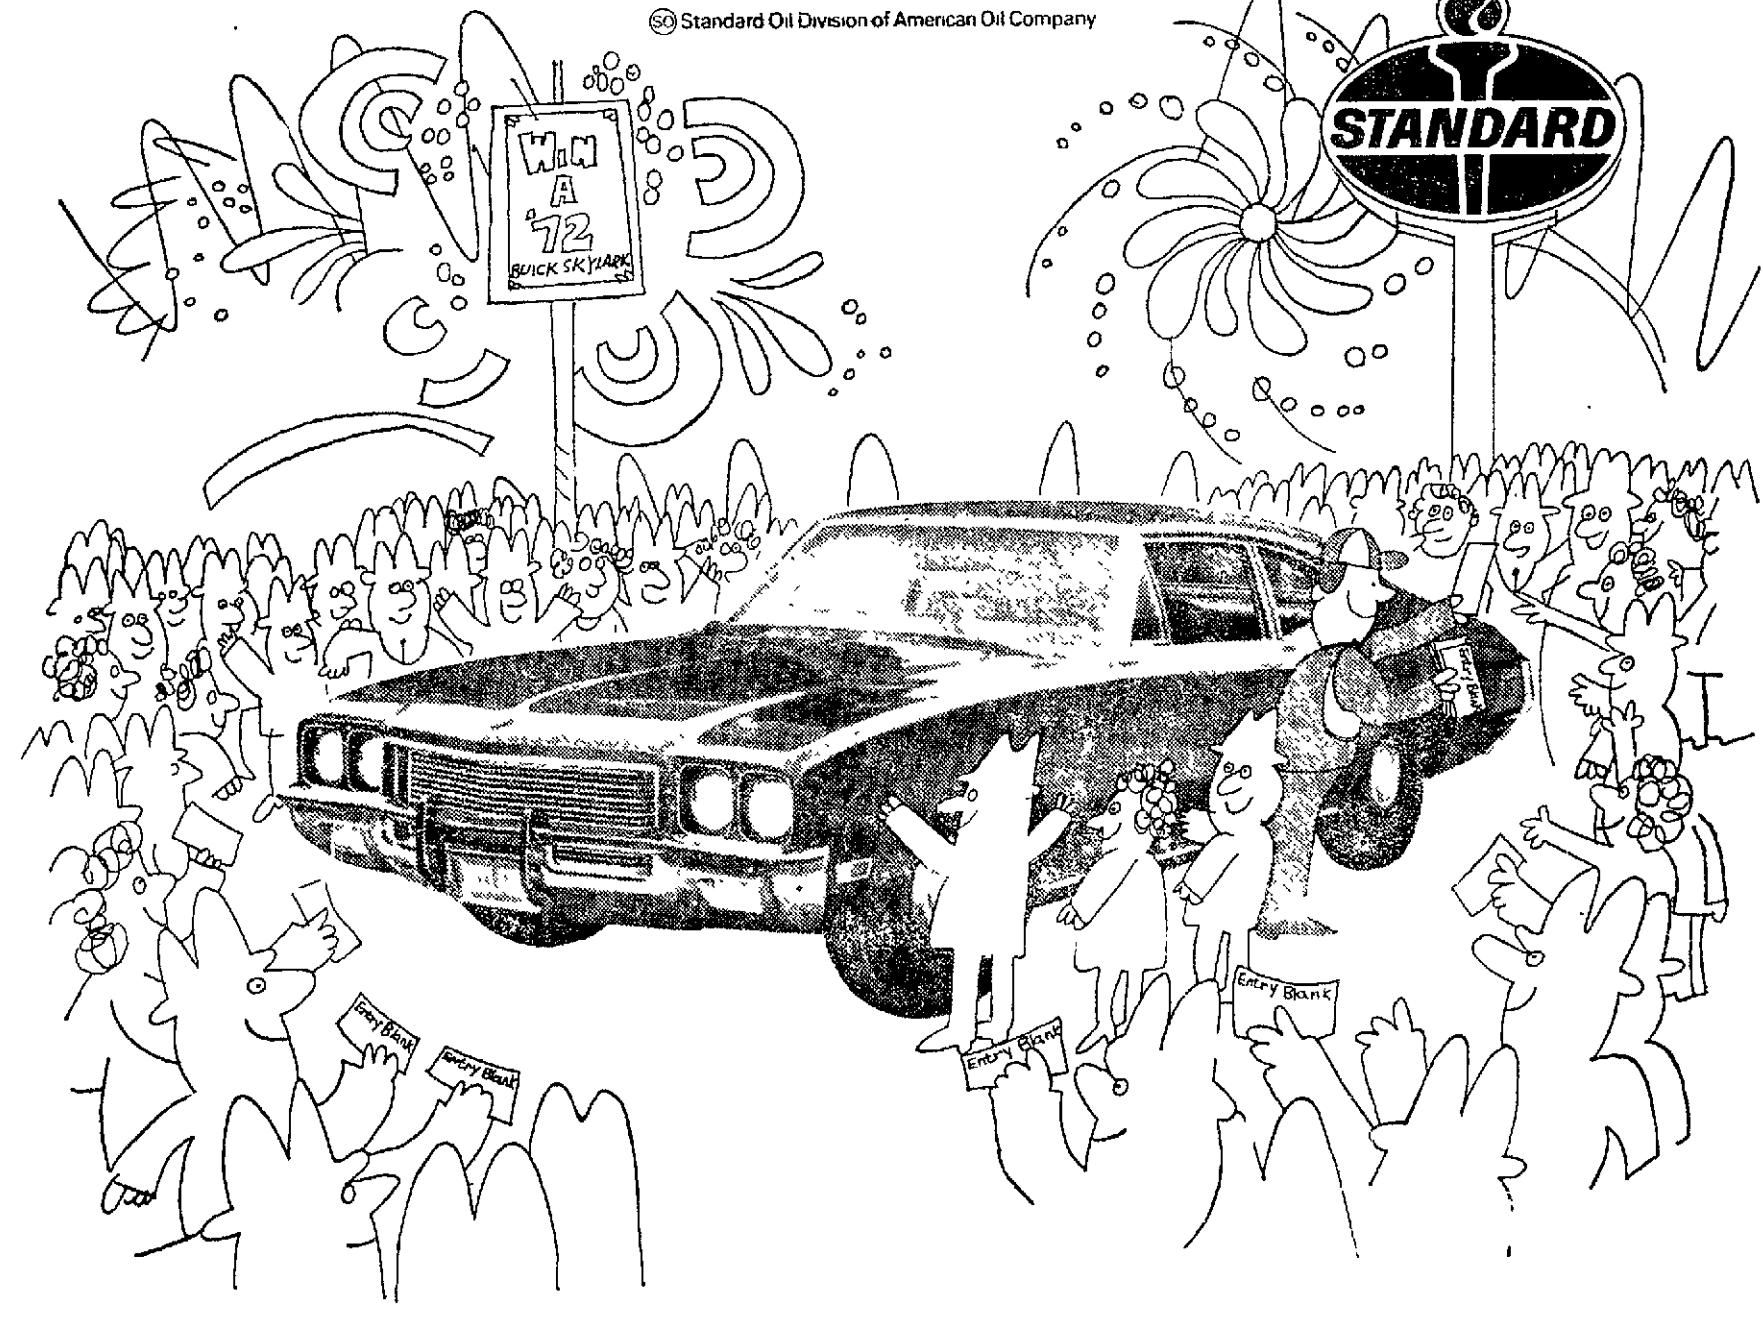

Sweepstakes end December 15, 1971. Your chances of winning depends on number of times you enter and the total entries received. In this contest area, there are approximately 993,445 licensed drivers who may enter.

Amoco New Car Carnival Sweepstakes official rules.

1. Enter as often as you like at your participating Standard Oil Dealer on an official entry blank or electronic facsimile or mail to your nearest participating dealer.
2. Winners will be determined from qualification drawings for the Final Grand Prize Sweepstakes drawing. The qualifiers for each Buick Skylark awarded will be determined by a drawing held at each participating Standard Oil Dealer.
3. Sweepstakes open to all licensed drivers of the United States, except Standard Oil Company employees and their dependents, its agents, jobbers, dealers, affiliates and their employees. Void in Maine, Massachusetts, Missouri, Virginia, Washington, Georgia, Maryland and Wisconsin and wherever prohibited by law. All federal, state and local laws and regulations apply.
4. No purchase necessary. All cars will be awarded. Prizes are non-transferable and non-redeemable for cash. No substitutes for cars offered.
5. Applicable taxes on all prize cars are the sole responsibility of the winners. Each 1972 Buick Skylark awarded will be a 2-door model with V-8 engine, standard transmission and all standard equipment. The prize cars will be delivered freight prepaid through the local Buick dealership. Approximate retail value $3,218.00. Car drawing will be held no later than December 31, 1971.
6. List of winners will be provided upon written request to: American Oil Co. Attn.: File MMD-1, P.O. Box 6110, Chicago, Illinois 60680.

We Hear That

A very young lady is currently quite the center of attention at the Dayton, Ohio home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Wohlfarth who formerly resided in Lincoln. We are referring to Miss Jennifer Jo Wohlfarth who made her world debut on Wednesday, Sept. 22.

Anxiously waiting to welcome her home were her brother, Stan, 7, and sisters, Diane, 5, and Julie, 3½. Completing Jennifer's family circle are her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Les Sanger and Mrs. Mary Wohlfarth.

Mr. Wohlfarth is a graduate of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism, and he was previously a sports writer for the Lincoln Star newspaper. Mrs. Wohlfarth, the former Miss Susan Sanger, was graduated from the St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing.

Also welcoming another member into their family recently were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Joe Turnwall. The new addition to the Turnwall family is Miss Kay Frances Turnwall.

The young lady's proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Holmgren of Estherville, Iowa, and Mrs. Ernest Turnwall.

Prenuptial Parties

October bride-elect Miss Marcilee Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Allen, has been honored at a number of prenuptial courtesies. The round of parties for Miss Allen, who will become the bride of Mark Allan Hergenrader on Friday evening, Oct. 22, began on Sunday, May 30, when she was presented with a miscellaneous shower during a party which was attended by members of her family. Hostess at her home for the get-together was Mrs. Donald Bomberger, and she was assisted by Mrs. John Garcia of Boulder, Colo.

On Sunday afternoon, Aug. 1, Miss Mary Sue Atkins entertained guests at a miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Allen.

Neighborhood friends of the soon-to-be bride were the guests at a shower which took place on Sunday, Aug. 15 at the home of Mrs. John Nelson. Miss Allen and Mr. Hergenrader shared honors at a couple's shower held on Saturday, Sept. 11. Hostesses for the evening party were Mrs. Michael Moran of Omaha and Mrs. John Kranda of Lockport, Ill.

Mrs. Gary Northouse was hostess at her home on Wednesday, Sept. 22, when she

Prairie Valley Park Manor

Lincoln residents are taking full advantage of these beautiful autumn days. As luck had it (and in spite of the weather forecast), the weekend took a turn for the better, and the many Nebraska football fans watched the game in full sunshine rather than drizzling rain.

People are utilizing these most agreeable days for weekend outings and drives in the country. And while the roads are predictably passable, relatives and friends are driving to Lincoln for get-togethers and a variety of special occasions.

Among our suburbia dwellers who have had the good fortune of entertaining friends recently, are Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Eden of Prairie Valley. Visiting with the Edens for three days were Col. (Ret.) R. L. Wolfe and Mrs. Wolfe. Their trip to Lincoln served not only as a time to visit friends, but also to become reacquainted with the city where Col. Wolfe attended both high school and college.

Although the Wolfe's time was limited, they were entertained at a small gathering by the Edens. Guests included two former school teachers of Col. Wolfe, Miss Hazel

MISS DIANE LEE PATTON

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Arvin L. Patton of Weeping Water make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Diane Lee, to Timothy Lee Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wade, all of Weeping Water.

The wedding will take place on Sunday, Dec. 5, in Weeping Water.

Miss Patton is a graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce and now is careering in Lincoln as a secretary for the Nebraska State Insurance Department.

Mr. Wade, a former student at the University of Nebraska, presently is careering in Weeping Water.

Wedding In London

The marriage of Miss Veronica Mary Murphy, daughter of Mrs. D. J. Murphy of London, England, and the late Mr. Murphy, and Capt. Don Hollenbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hollenbeck, all of Elmwood, was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 25, in St. Mary's Catholic Church in London. White roses and white gladioli formed the background for the 3:30 o'clock ceremony.

Alike frocks styled with white embroidered bodices and jade green skirts were worn by the attendants, including the maid of honor, Miss Ann Smyth, and the bridesmaids Miss India Francis, Miss Catharine Francis, Miss Catharine Smyth and Miss Imelda Francis, all of London. They wore picture hats of jade green.

Capt. Stephen Hoier of London served as best man; and the groomsmen and ushers were Kenneth Francis, Michael Walsh and Gerard Smyth, all of London.

The bride appeared in a white silk gown accented with seed pearls. A full-length veil in the Elizabethan style was held to her head by a bandeau of silk trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

Following a wedding trip to Rome and Sorrento, Italy, Capt. Hollenbeck and his bride will reside in Berkshire, Eng.

The bride attended Marist Convent in London.

Capt. Hollenbeck is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University. He is serving with the U.S. Air Force, and is presently stationed at R.A.F. Greenham Common in Southwest London.

in the suburban areas

III. Mrs. Cunningham, the former Sally Dickson, was a native of Pittsburgh, Penn.

Another busy home in suburbia is that of Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanDeventer of Park Manor. It seems that no sooner does the door close on one set of visitors than it is opened for more company. The VanDeventers are not complaining, for their guests have been very special.

This past weekend they were paid a visit by Mr. VanDeventer's sister-in-law, Mrs. Berdene Rue of Denver, Colo. During her stay, the family travelled to Humboldt for a visit with Mrs. VanDeventer's mother, Mrs. Nora E. Rue.

When the VanDeventers were not receiving guests, they found time to do a bit of visiting themselves. Recently, their travels took them to Pawnee City, where they were houseguests of Mr. VanDeventer's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Phillips. A special Sunday dinner took the form of a "mini" family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Cunningham had very glad tidings recently. The good news came from Kenilworth, Ill., the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cunningham. The news involved a third party, namely Miss Kellie Hamel Cunningham, the latest addition to the Robert Cunningham family. Kellie, who was born on Sunday, Sept. 26, has a two year old sister, Kristen.

Many Lincoln residents will remember Robert Cunningham as a 1964 graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Mr. Cunningham then went on to receive his law degree (LLM) in 1969 from New York University. He is presently a member of the Baker and McKenzie Law Firm in Chicago,

Town Talk

This morning we'd like to add a final note to a most interesting story which we began last week.

As everyone is by now aware, Monday was a memorable day for Mrs. A. B. Sheldon of Lexington. Mrs. Sheldon is well-known in the state of Nebraska for her contributions to the arts; and in recognition of her active interest, Mrs. Sheldon was honored in Washington, D.C. at a formal dinner which took place yesterday evening at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The festivities actually began several hours prior to the dinner—on Monday afternoon to be precise—when Sen. Carl Curtis entertained guests at a luncheon held in Mrs. Sheldon's honor.

Included among the Nebraskans who journeyed to Washington for the day's events were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. J. Taylor Greer, Mrs. James Rawley; Mrs. Lee Stover, her mother, Mrs. Andrew Kopperud of Omaha, and Mrs. Stover's sister, Mrs. William Ramsey, also of Omaha; Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Zemer, Mrs. Curtis D. Kimball, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hevelone of Beatrice, Mrs. John Harris of McCool Junction, and Jon Nelson of the Sheldon Gallery.

LWC Class Is Planned

All members of the Lincoln Woman's Club are invited to attend an art class which will be held Thursday afternoon, Oct. 7, at the Clubhouse. The class will begin at 1:15 o'clock.

A Dream That Came True

Completing all of the payments on a financial contract two years ahead of schedule is a dream that everyone has, but seldom does it come true.

For the Lincoln Community Playhouse Guild, however, it wasn't just a dream. The organization paid off its $2,500 dollar pledge to the Lincoln Community Playhouse last Thursday when the Guild held its annual luncheon at the University Club.

The fact that the success of its many projects enabled them to pay their debt so far in advance of the due date encouraged the members to make another pledge — a slightly larger one that will be spent for paneling which is needed for acoustic purposes as well as beauty at the Playhouse.

Writing the check for $1,500 is Mrs. J. W. Rapp, treasurer of the Guild, and looking on are Mrs. Sam Davidson (left) and Mrs. Mark Muffley.

an understandable decision

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We entertained a family of six at our summer place last weekend. The children ranged from 9 years old to 17.

The children invaded my kitchen, helping themselves at all hours to whatever they found in my refrigerator.

The first day they ate everything I had planned to serve for the entire weekend. The 17-year-old drinks nine cans of pop in one afternoon.

I served a buffet supper. The children got into line first and loaded their plates, and came back for seconds before some of the adults could help themselves.

I was appalled. But worse than that, I was disappointed in myself for not having found some way to control the situation.

Needless to say, they will never be invited back. How would you have handled it?

APPALLED

Probably much the same way you handled (or didn't handle) it. The temptation to teach those ill-mannered children something about manners and consideration for elders must have been overwhelming. But because their parents were present and made no attempt to discipline them, it would have been extremely awkward for you to have done so. It's history now. Your decision never to invite them back is understandable.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I watch television from our bed at night and we aren't ashamed to admit it. We keep switching from Johnny Carson to Merv Griffin to Dick Cavett, and there's also David Frost and now Steve Allen. So what's our problem? Some of our intellectual friends who never watch "that garbge," and make us feel like morons because we do.

But what's really funny is when I mention something I saw on television these "intellectual" friends who never watch the boob tube just happen to have caught it, too. Ha! JUST PLAIN FOLKS IN MPLS.

DEAR FOLKS: Move over. You have plenty of company.

DEAR ABBY: I wrote you a letter several years ago. I was another angry teen-ager, complaining because my parents didn't trust me, wouldn't let me grow up, bleach my hair, wear a lot of makeup and date older boys when I was young. They seemed to want to keep me a baby forever. I hated them for being so unreasonable. Since then I have seen many letters in your column so much like my own.

Then I got into a serious automobile accident and suffered neck and back injuries that partially paralyzed me for many long months. At first they said I'd never walk again. My friends flocked to see me while I was in the hospital, but when I went home and was confined to a hospital bed, they forgot me. The painful process of learning how to sit up and walk again was so discouraging and agonizing.

The two friends who never let me down were my parents. During the time I was on my back, I had plenty of time to think, and it was then I realized I had been the unreasonable one, and my parents had kept a watchful eye on me because they loved me. I am glad I found out how wonderful parents can be before it was too late. We are closer than ever now.

Oh, by the way, I never mailed that letter to you. I've kept it all this time in my top drawer.

WISER NOW

DEAR ABBY: I am 39 and have three preschool children. I am married to an absolute nut who has made a fortune in business.

He devotes 100 per cent of his time to his business — or to other people.

He tells me what to do and when to do it. I feel like a robot who is wound up every morning and programmed to do whatever he wants me to do.

If I open my mouth, I get a lecture or a black eye. Sometimes both.

I told him I was leaving him and he said I needed to see a psychiatrist. So I saw one, and the psychiatrist told me to send in my husband. My husband said, "I'm not going. All those head doctors are nuts themselves."

So that's where it stands. Abby, I want out of this jail I'm living in. If it weren't for the kids I'd have left him long ago. How important is it for children to have a father?

GOING NUTS

DEAR GOING: You can't be staying in that jail because you don't want to deprive your children of a father. From what you say, he's not much of a father anyway. Children need at least one sane parent, so stay with the psychiatrist and let him unbraid your brains.

What started out as a simple pre-game chili supper on Saturday evening, Oct. 2, turned into a surprise party before 10 Northeast football fans departed for Seacrest Field and the Rockets' game with Lincoln Pius X.

The sweet-sixteen guest of honor was Miss Jeanine Haase, a junior at Northeast and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Haase.

And the honoree got her birthday wish later that evening, when the Rockets emerged victorious in their battle with the Thunderbolts.

Opening lead — king of spades.

The principle of avoidance enters into the play of many hands. Declarer frequently finds it more dangerous to have one defender on lead than the other, and he therefore tries to shape his play so as to prevent the dangerous opponent from taking the lead.

For an extremely unusual application of the principle, consider this hand where South is in four hearts. He sees he must lose a spade and a diamond, come what may, and that he may also lose two clubs, for West is marked by the bidding with the ace.

One way of trying to escape two club losers is to lead the A-K and another diamond. If the suit is divided 3-2, dummy's two remaining diamonds will become tricks on which two clubs can be discarded. The trouble is that East may win the third diamond lead, in which case a club shift through the king will defeat the contract.

So declarer plans his play to avoid East, the dangerous opponent. In line with this, he ducks the king of spades. Let's assume West shifts to a diamond, which is the best he can do.

Declarer wins in dummy with the king and pursues his plan of avoidance by playing a low spade to the jack! West wins with the queen and leads another diamond.

Dummy wins and cashes the ace of spades, declarer shedding his last diamond. Now South ruffs a diamond high, draws three round of trumps, ending in dummy, and discards two clubs on the 9-8 of diamonds.

West gets a club trick at the end, but South makes the contract. In effect, South arranges to lose two spades and no diamonds, instead of one spade and one diamond.

Birthday Celebration

A former Lincoln resident, Mrs. Charles Caldwell now of Southfield, Mich., will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be held Saturday afternoon, Oct. 16, in Southfield. The incentive for the event has to do with the fact that Mrs. Caldwell will be observing her 93rd birthday on that particular date.

Mrs. Mao's Move Feared

By THOMAS B. ROSS
(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Washington — The mysterious political turmoil in China apparently centers on fears that, upon Chairman Mao Tse-tung's death, his wife, Chiang Ch'ing, will produce a will bequeathing power to her and her allies.

U.S. intelligence analysts indicated they have received intimations that Peking's politburo is seeking to head off any such move by agreeing upon a collective leadership prior to Mao's demise.

The analysts also reported that there have been no military flights inside China since the three-day ban on all flights, civilian and military, two weeks ago. That would seem to reflect high-level apprehension that those being demoted or removed in the current realignment might seek to flee the country.

Three Unseen

There reportedly has been no sign for several weeks of three key figures in the Peking hierarchy: Vice Chairman Lin Piao, until recently the clear heir-apparent; Chen Po-ta, head of the supervising committee of the 1966 cultural revolution, and K'ang Sheng, chief of the intelligence and espionage system.

Lin, 65, and in poor health, has not been seen in public since June, leading to speculation that he has stepped aside in favor of a collective leadership.

K'ang, as well as Chen, had a

Reason For Stalin Purge
Stalin's bloody purges have been attributed largely to his efforts to suppress the will and eliminate the challenge of those who were aware of it.

Should Mao's wife produce a self-serving will upon his death, a similar brutal contest could develop between the extremists of the cultural revolution and the pragmatists led by Premier Chou En-lai.

Hamilton was charged with a second degree murder charge in the death of John Smith in Allen on May 2, 1970 and was sentenced to 10 to 25 years in the penal complex.

Arguing for the state, Assistant Attorney General James Duggan said the court acted properly in all respects in accepting the guilty plea.

Mrs. Mao's Move Feared

By THOMAS B. ROSS
(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Washington — The mysterious political turmoil in China apparently centers on fears that, upon Chairman Mao Tse-tung's death, his wife will produce a will bequeathing power to her and her allies.

U.S. intelligence analysts indicated they have received intimations that Peking's politburo is seeking to head off any such move by agreeing upon a collective leadership prior to Mao's demise.

The analysts also reported that there have been no military flights inside China since the three-day ban on all flights, civilian and military, two weeks ago. That would seem to reflect high-level apprehension that those being demoted or removed in the current realignment might seek to flee the country.

Three Unseen

There reportedly has been no sign for several weeks of three key figures in the Peking hierarchy: Vice Chairman Lin Piao, until recently the clear heir-apparent; Chen Po-ta, head of the supervising committee of the 1966 cultural revolution, and K'ang Sheng, chief of the intelligence and espionage system.

Lin, 65, and in poor health, has not been seen in public since June, leading to speculation that he has stepped aside in favor of a collective leadership.

K'ang, as well as Chen, had a prominent role in the cultural revolution, during which he was catapulted to fifth place in the politburo.

K'ang's wife, Tsao Yi-ou, and Mao's wife, Chiang Ch'ing, were the chief female firebrands in the early days of the cultural revolution.

Chiang, a 58-year-old former Shanghai actress and Mao's fourth wife, is believed to have extraordinary influence over the chairman. Her political opponents, therefore, apparently fear that she will prevail upon him in his last, perhaps senile, days to sign a will naming her as his successor.

Such a will has precedent within the Communist system.

In 1923, a year before he died, V. I. Lenin wrote a "will" warning that Joseph Stalin was "too rude" and lacked the talents necessary to become party leader. But afflicted by a series of strokes, Lenin lost the power to enforce his wishes and died without appointing a successor.

Reason For Stalin Purge

Stalin's bloody purges have been attributed largely to his efforts to suppress the will and eliminate the challenge of those who were aware of it.

Should Mao's wife produce a self-serving will upon his death, a similar brutal contest could develop between the extremists of the cultural revolution and the pragmatists led by Premier Chou En-lai.

Meany Says Nixon Proved Unworthy Of Trust

Washington — AFL-CIO President George Meany said President Nixon has proved unworthy of the trust reposed in him to stabilize prices and wages, urged Congress Monday to "reassert control over the economy."

"How in the name of equality of sacrifice can the President impose economic actions which are patently unfair?" Meany asked in testimony prepared for the House Banking Committee.

"The freeze on wages is across-the-board and absolute," Meany said. "It is enforced happily by the employer through control of the paycheck.

"In contrast, some prices were never frozen, some prices have been allowed to increase since Aug. 15 and there is no systematic, effective enforcement procedure for those prices that are still supposed to be frozen."

The only example Meany cited as a price increase was in the automobile field. He quoted a newspaper story that American Motors had raised the price of some 1972 model cars over the 1971 price on the ground that formerly optional equipment had been made standard, and that the Office of Emergency Preparedness had concluded. His reference to prices never frozen was apparently to fresh foodstuffs, which are exempted when sold essentially in their natural state.

Morton Focuses On Indian Water Rights

The New York Times

Washington — The administration promised Monday to take to task bureaucrats who attempt to thwart efforts to give Indians more self-determination.

This word came from Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton as he announced a series of actions designed to protect Indian rights and to give them economic and social benefits.

"We've set the policy," he said at a news conference. "The philosophy of self-determination will prevail. If we find anyone opposing that or stiff-arming at the Bureau of Indians Affairs level we're going to take them to task."

Morton's promise came after President Nixon last week blamed the bureaucracy for lack of progress in solving Indian problems and said he had directed Morton to "shake up" the Indian Bureau.

Protect Resources

The purpose of his new actions on Indian water rights, contracts for services now performed by the bureau, legislation and roads to open up reservations were "to protect Indian resources and deal effectively with the root of Indian dissatisfaction — poverty, unemployment and inadequate educational background."

Toward his announced ends, he outlined the following major actions:

—Water rights — creation of an Indian Water Rights Office as the "focal point for seeing

Sears Opens Auto Center At Gateway

Sears, Roebuck and Co. Monday morning opened a new 14-car automotive service center at the Gateway Shopping Center.

Sears Manager Walt B. Reser has named Bob Ferguson as auto center manager.

The center, which is attached to the soon-to-be completed 130,000 sq. ft. Sears store, is two times the size of the former downtown auto center.

Reser said the facility contains the latest electronic and mechanical devices for servicing 14 cars simultaneously.

In addition to the service area, the center contains an auto accessory, replacement parts and tire sales area.

The center is housed in a steel and masonry building. Adjacent Sears parking is available for 1,000, while the entire shopping center has space for 4,500 cars.

Street Paving Request Is Okayed

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A request to pave a 500-foot street segment for an anticipated plastics plant gained city council approval Monday night despite some concern about who should bear the cost.

The Beatrice Development Corporation asked for the improvement as "one of five requirements which had been requested by Spectrum Plastics Engineering Co. The firm had taken an option on ground in the vicinity of the proposed paving, Caldwell St. between 7th and 8th.

Keith Krecklow of BDC explained that the county board has agreed to surface approximately one-third of a mile beyond the city limits. The council was asked to connect this with existing pavement on Caldwell.

Questions arose when it was proposed that adjacent property owners be assessed for the improvement through a resolution. This approach precludes "petitioning out" by a majority of owners as could be done if the matter were handled by ordinance.

Councilman Matt Hale said such procedure would violate the "principle of free country." Harley Kolekowski and Larry Sargent and several councilmen defended the request. They suggested that adjoining property would benefit by increasing in value, also noting that the city would participate through intersection costs.

"When the council sits as a board of equalization it can then decide the benefits," said City Attorney Earl Ahlschwede.

Approximately $4,000 maximum would be involved, it was pointed out. Sargent said this was "a small price to pay for an industry which we've worked for."

Dr. James G. L. Williams, unit director, said he expects the facility to have a full house of patients in about three weeks.

Woman To Stand Trial In Slaying Of Husband

Mrs. Judy L. Sturm, 28, of 2740 R, was bound over to Lancaster District Court for trial on second-degree murder following preliminary hearing Monday before Acting County Judge Raymond Calkins.

Mrs. Sturm is charged in connection with the shotgun death of her husband, Harvey, in the early morning hours of Sept. 18 at the Sturm family home.

Two Lincoln police officers, Capt. Lowell Sellmeyer and Inspector Robert S. A. w. d. o. n., testified at the preliminary hearing.

The officers said Mrs. Sturm said her husband came home about 2 a.m., was belligerent and intoxicated, and "slapped her around," including blows to her lip and stomach.

According to Mrs. Sturm, her husband threatened to "strangle her with a telephone cord if she ever called the police again," and had thrown objects against the walls.

After her husband had gone to bed, Mrs. Sturm said she then got a 12-gauge shotgun, loaded it, and fired two shots at her sleeping husband, they said.

"She said," according to Sellmeyer, "she was terrified of her husband, and feared he would get up and kill her."

According to an autopsy report, Sturm died from two shotgun wounds in the lower chest and upper abdomen.

Judge Calkins ordered Mrs. Sturm continued in custody without bond, denying a request from Public Defender, Clem Gaughan.

Toward his announced ends, he outlined the following major actions:

—Water rights — creation of an Indian Water Rights Office as the "focal point for seeing that appropriate action is taken to assure Indians of their rights," which critics contend are jeopardized by other federal water programs. Two million dollars will be used for the new office's first year of operation.

—Contracts — more authority will be sought from Congress for the bureau to contract with Indian tribes for services in various fields, including schools and housing, as another step toward more self-government. A "full-time training program" will be established to train bureau employees and prospective contractors in procedures and methods of the contracting processes.

Water Rights Emphasized

The secretary dwelt heavily on Indian water rights, saying that he already had recommended to the Department of Justice that it file suit to protect the underground water rights of the Lummi Indians in the state of Washington.

He said the department also would intervene in three water rights cases pending before the Federal Power Commission. These are in Idaho, California and Wisconsin.

Morton said that no personnel changes were planned.

NPI Will Open New Drug Center

Omaha, Neb. — The Nebraska Psychiatric Institute's new 10-bed drug research center is scheduled to begin accepting patients Tuesday.

The center is being financed through a first-year appropriation of $163,000 from the legislature. The unit adds to a drug treatment program which has been carried out at the institute for some time, with an average of five to 10 hospitalized patients and an equal number of outpatients.

Dr. James G. L. Williams, unit director, said he expects the facility to have a full house of patients in about three weeks.

Street Paving Request Is Okayed

Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A request to pave a 500-foot street segment for an anticipated plastics plant gained city council approval Monday night despite some concern about who should bear the cost.

The Beatrice Development Corporation asked for the improvement as "one of five requirements which had been requested by Spectrum Plastics Engineering Co. The firm had taken an option on ground in the vicinity of the proposed paving, Caldwell St. between 7th and 8th.

Keith Krecklow of BDC explained that the county board has agreed to surface approximately one-third of a mile beyond the city limits. The council was asked to connect this with existing pavement on Caldwell.

Questions arose when it was proposed that adjacent property owners be assessed for the improvement through a resolution. This approach precludes "petitioning out" by a majority of owners as could be done if the matter were handled by ordinance.

Councilman Matt Hale said such procedure would violate the "principle of free country." Harley Kollekowski and Larry Probst also questioned the fairness of "asking a few people to pay for an industry which would benefit the whole city."

There were no votes against having the resolution drawn, however, after Mayor Bob Sargent and several councilmen defended the request. They suggested that adjoining property would benefit by increasing in value, also noting that the city would participate through intersection costs.

"When the council sits as a board of equalization it can then decide the benefits," said City Attorney Earl Ahlschwede.

Approximately $4,000 maximum would be involved, it was pointed out. Sargent said this was "a small price to pay for an industry which we've worked for."

Dr. James G. L. Williams, unit director, said he expects the facility to have a full house of patients in about three weeks.

House OKs Delay In Federal Pay Hike

Washington (AP) — President Nixon's order for a $1.3-billion six-month delay in a federal pay raise was upheld by the House Monday 207 to 174. The Senate has yet to act.

A host of Southern Democrats joined Republicans in turning back a House move to make the pay raise effective Jan. 1 instead of next July 1, as Nixon ordered.

It was the first congressional vote on any of the President's emergency economic proposals, and he said a veto of his action postponing the pay raise would torpedo the whole package.

Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, plans to press for a vote in the Senate Wednesday or Thursday. Either the Senate or the House can override the President's pay-raise deferral.

action, without concurrence by the other chamber.

Military Raise OK'd

The Senate voted 65 to 4 Monday to give members of the armed forces a $381-million annual pay raise in addition to a $2.4-billion increase included in the already-enacted legislation to extend the draft.

Nixon has indirectly approved this action but Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, opposed it as inflationary. She was joined in voting against the extra raise by Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill.

The action is subject to a second Senate-House conference which is likely to take a dim view of the added increase. Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo.,

In the House, leadership:

proposed the raise as an amendment to the $21-billion military procurement bill now before the Senate. Allott called it necessary first step toward attracting an all-volunteer army.

In other developments on the economic front Monday:

I. W. Abel, president of the AFL-CIO Steelworkers Union, aid in a speech the American worker "is drowning in a flood of imports" and declared Nixon's 10% import surcharge is inadequate to solve the problem.

Economists participating in a Federal Home Loan Bank Board conference predicted 1971 home building will set a new record but that this will be exceeded in 1972.

Nixon Accused

But Democratic Speaker Carl Albert said Democrats were simply trying to give federal workers equal treatment with private workers and Rep. Jerome R. Waidie, D-Calif., disputed what he called Nixon's assertion that federal employees were being asked to make sacrifices on their own.

Retailers Must Keep List Of Legal Prices

Washington (AP) — The Cost of Living Council said Monday retailers must keep available for public inspection at each store a list of legal prices permitted under President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

But this is not a requirement, it said, since "these records comprise proprietary information."

However, sellers are required to disclose all lists in supporting records to the government if it decides to investigate complaints.

A spokesman for consumer advocate Ralph Nader said the council's ruling is important, since it provides the consumer with more guidance to police the price freeze.

'Additional Guidance'

The council, releasing what it called "additional guidance" on the freeze, said customers not satisfied with the ceiling price of a product provided by the seller should file a complaint with the local office of the Internal Revenue Service.

The board said a step-up in installment credit was reflected in all major kinds of debt, but was particularly strong in the automobile sector, which expanded $307 million in August.

Of the total $129.7 billion in consumer credit outstanding, $104 billion was in installment credit.

Consumer installment debt increased $761 million in July and showed a monthly average of $560 million from April through June.

The figures include loans by individuals to financial institutions, retailers and other distributors, but exclude home mortgages and insurance policy loans.

Several chain stores have contended the lists do not have to be available at the store as long as they are available within the company, Frederickson said.

Sellers Encouraged

The council said if customers question ceiling prices, sellers

Kiesinger Is Replaced By Barzel

Saarbruecken, Germany (AP) — West Germany's opposition Christian Democratic party elected Rainer Barzel, 47, as its new leader Monday. He replaces former Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and is all but assured of being the party's candidate for chancellor in 1973.

Barzel has been the Christian Democratic floor leader in Bundestag, or parliament, since 1964. Before his election Monday in the party's congress, he said the Christian Democrats were already prepared for a national election.

"We are ready for new elections any day," he said in a brief speech to the 500 party congress delegates.

He has declared he would also seek the party's nomination to become the official challenger to Chancellor Willy Brandt in the 1973 federal election.

In Kiesinger's final speech Monday as head of the Christian Democrats, he told the party congress that Brandt missed a chance to negotiate with the Soviet Union from a position of strength.

He claimed Brandt's government has made only concessions to the Russians and received "almost nothing" for recognizing the existing borders in Europe.

Barzel had been the favored candidate to succeed Kiesinger, 67, who did not run for re-election.

In the House, leadership

backed Democrats pressing for a veto of Nixon's six-month pay raise delay accused the President of sacrificing federal employees' pay for his economic program before wage guidelines for everyone else have been announced.

But Republicans with strong help from Southern Democrats supported Nixon's argument that federal employees must share sacrifices and that rejection of the $1.3-billion saving would break up his anti-inflation package.

"If you break the dam today, if you open up the dike," said Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., "then the inflationary field will be flooded."

But Democratic Speaker Carl Albert said Democrats were simply trying to give federal workers equal treatment with private workers and Rep. Jerome R. Waidie, D-Calif., disputed what he called Nixon's assertion that federal employees were being asked to make sacrifices on their own.

Washington (AP) — U.S. consumers increased their installment debt by the largest amount in more than two years in August, the Federal Reserve Board said Monday.

The board said a step up in installment credit was reflected in all major kinds of debt, but was particularly strong in the automobile sector, which expanded $307 million in August.

Of the total $129.7 billion in consumer credit outstanding, $104 billion was in installment credit.

Big Eight Leads

Various guidelines are used by various conferences to show that they're the toughest, but if you go on the basis of unbeaten teams, the nod after four weeks of the 1971 college football season goes to the Big Eight.

The Big Eight is the only major conference with as many as four undefeated teams at this stage with Nebraska and Colorado showing 4-0 marks and Oklahoma and Iowa State logging 3-0 records.

There are only two other major conferences with more than one unbeaten team — the Southeastern Conference with Alabama 4-0, Georgia 4-0 and Auburn 3-0, and the Atlantic Coast Conference with surprising Duke and North Carolina both boasting 4-0 records.

The Big Ten (Michigan 4-0), Pacific-8 (Washington 4-0), Southwest (Texas 3-0) and the Western Athletic Conference (Arizona State 3-0) are the major leagues with only one unbeaten team in their ranks.

Southern Cal coach John McKay was as much unimpressed by his Trojans' tackling as he was impressed by Oklahoma's runners in the Sooners' 33-20 victory Saturday in a game in which OU attempted only one pass, an incomplete one, but ran for 516 yards.

"If we play like this Stanford will beat us 55-0," quoted McKay after the game.

Branch Excites Crowd

Colorado sprinter Clifford Branch has run back three punts for touchdowns in the Buffs' first four games and CU coach Eddie Crowder admits he gets excited everytime Branch takes a punt.

"But that's because I don't know whether he'll drop it or score a touchdown," he adds with a grin.

Nebraska football has made the Congressional Record with Nebraska Rep. Charles Thone entering into the Record of Sept. 28 the NU domination of the wire service polls last week, excerpts from a column by Dick Cullum of Minneapolis and an editorial from the Norfolk Daily News based on Cullum's column dealing with the Huskers being No. 1 and the reaction of their fans.

Proving there's nothing like a tight pennant race to what a baseball fan's appetite is the fact that Los Angeles and San Francisco, who battled down to the final night before deciding the National League West Division crown, showed the largest attendance gains in baseball this season.

The Dodgers' attendance was up by 367,452 and the Giants' figures were up by 381,879 over a year ago. National League attendance showed a gain of 670,887 over 1970 while the American League was down by 214,631.

Reynolds' Condition Questioned

The Roanoke, Va., Times in picking Nebraska to repeat as Big Eight champion says "The running backs will be Jeff Kinney and Bobby Reynolds." All Nebraska fans would agree Reynolds was great in his day, but the last time we saw him he appeared to be a little out of shape.

In introducing evangelist Billy Graham to newsmen at a press conference in Texas Stadium, Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry remarked: "Billy's lucky. His team has only one quarterback, and he knows who it is. And if I had his quarterback, I'd have no problem either."

While at St. Louis and Philadelphia, the Los Angeles Dodgers' Richie Allen gained a reputation for often being late to the ball park and sometimes didn't bother to show up at all.

Recently before the Dodgers' annual Father-Son game, Maury Wills, who was managing the Sons' team, quipped, "I've got two of Richie's boys on the team and both would be in the starting lineup, but I can't be sure they'll make it on time."

Pitching Still Gives Giants Edge In Playoffs Says Fox

Pittsburgh (P) — Nelson Briles took heat treatment on his right high; Juan Marichal played catch with coach Ossie Virgil; managers Danny Murtaugh and Charlie Fox sat in rocking chairs and talked with reporters.

This was the all action Monday as the Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants rested for Tuesday's third game in the best-of-five National League playoffs. The rest teams are tied 1-1, with the rest of the series — a many games as necessary — scheduled for Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium.

The 28-year-old Briles, a spot starter and reliever in Pittsburgh's drive to the Eastern Division championship, was Murtaugh's pitching choice in the third game.

"Briles," says Murtaugh, "did the job coming down the stretch. He's earned the third job on merit."

The Pirates are depending on their slugging prowess for an edge over the 32-year-old Marichal, an 18-game winner this season as the Giants won the Western title on the last day of the season behind the righthander.

While the rest of the Giants rested from their trip east, Marichal reported to the ball park. "I decided to play catch and get the feel of the ball in my hand."

Marichal, who injured a hip Sept. 26 in a collision with Cincinnati's Lee May, said he still doesn't feel 100 per cent but the hip is okay.

San Francisco manager Charlie Fox makes no secret of the fact that he feels the Giants have the edge because they have Marichal and righthander Gaylord Perry.

"In any given contest it's who has the pitching," Fox said, as he rocked alongside Murtaugh in the Pittsburgh manager's office.

You can have all the hitting you want, just give me the pitchers. I don't believe in that psychological edge for Pittsburgh. I've got the edge, I've got Marichal."

Fox could have a bigger pitching edge than he realizes. Murtaugh disclosed that Ellis, the Pirates' 19 game winner, has elbow trouble and may not pitch again in the playoffs, or the World Series if the Pirates should win the National League pennant.

NU-Missouri Game Seen As Brotherly Scrap

... HUSKER AIDE POINTS OUT NO ONE FRIGHTENED IN FAMILY FIGHTS

start with trouble getting their offense to jell," pointed out. "One thing that has to concern us is that their defense has been so great against us that they present their offense with excellent field position.

"If an offense keeps getting the ball in good field position, it often can make an offense good."

But the Husker coach doesn't feel getting his players ready mentally will be a problem this week.

"I think all we have to do is tell them that we're playing Missouri," he said. "Missouri beat the heck out of us the last time we played down there. The score was only 17-7, but we were never in the game."

"We should be ready mentally."

With the exception of linebacker Bill Sloey, Devaney said the Huskers should also be ready physically with only center Doug Dumler and defensive tackle Larry Jacobson being slowed at the present time with knee injuries.

"But we figure they'll be ready by Saturday," Devaney added.

Reflecting on the Huskers' fourth straight

win of the season, a 42-6 triumph over Utah State, Devaney called it "a well played game with the exception of penalties."

The Huskers had eight penalties for 90 yards, most of them for offensive holding and clipping.

"We've got one of the best punt returners in the nation in Johnny Rodgers," Devaney observed. "But it's almost a waste of time to work on the punt return these days because of clipping penalties."

"We almost lose more yards on clipping penalties than Johnny can pick up returning punts. One of the reasons we get so many clipping penalties on his runbacks is that he changes direction so often."

On the other side of the punting game, the Husker coach said he had considered using Brent Longwell to do the punting. "But he kicks them so far that we're afraid he will out-kick our coverage and with guys like Clifford Branch (Colorado), we can't afford that to happen."

For that reason, he said Jeff Hughes probably would continue as the NU punter.

Devaney said the Huskers would strive to cut down on the penalty yardage, but added, "Aggressive teams are always going to be penalized more and it seems that winning teams get more penalties than losing ones."

With the exception of the holding penalties, Devaney praised his offense.

"Utah State was bringing up eight men on the line of scrimmage to stop our running game," he explained. "And we still ran for 230 yards."

"We felt that because of the defense they were playing, we could hit the long bomb on them and we did throw for two touchdowns."

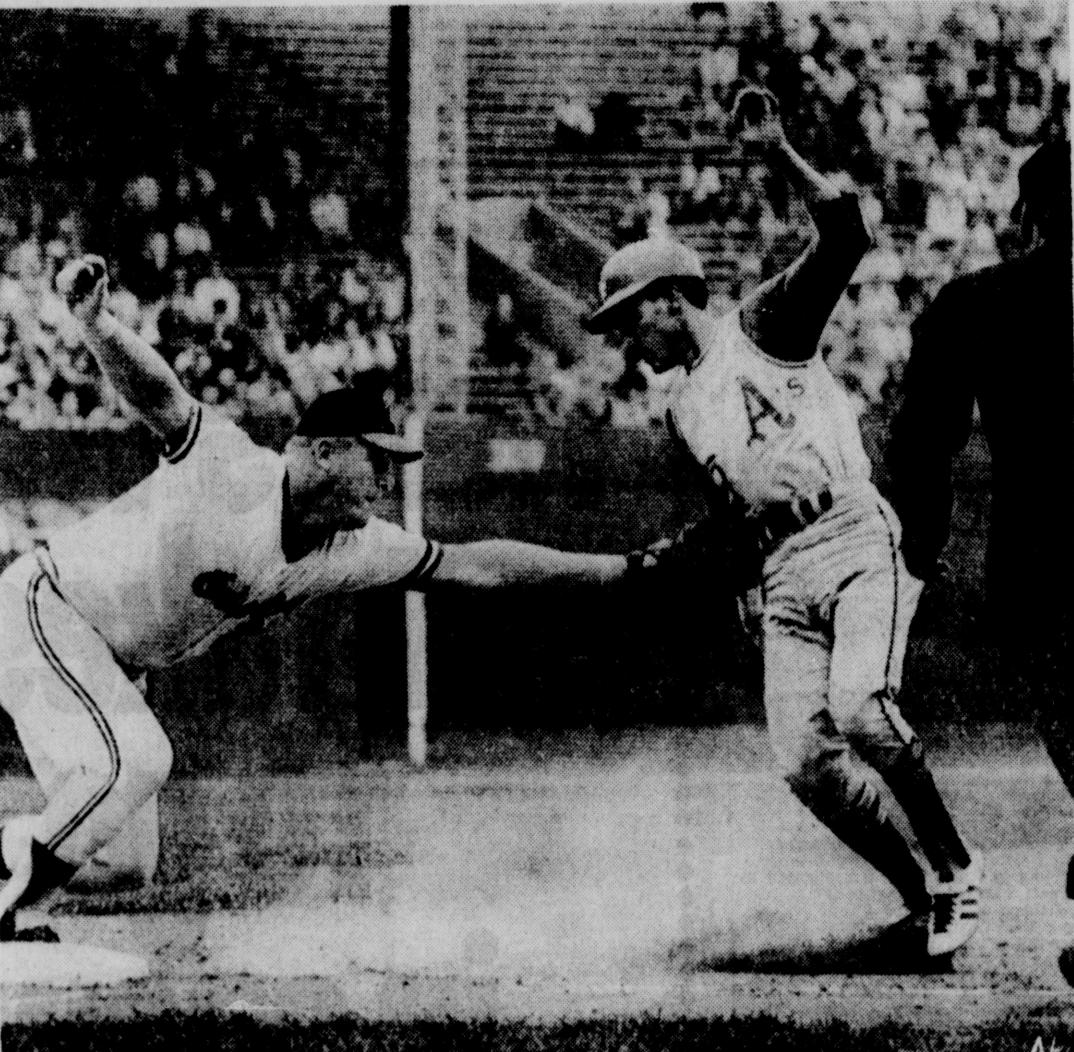

"Our offensive line played fine football. When you give your passer the protection to throw the long bombs, it's great. And when you open holes for the backs to run through, that's also great."

Defensively, with the exception of two bad plays on Utah State's scoring drive, Devaney said, "Our defense also played a great game."

Lamonica Engineers Rally; Raiders Halt Browns, 34-20

... OAKLAND OVERCOMES 20-10 DEFICIT

Cleveland (P) — The Oakland Raiders exploded for 24 points in the fourth quarter behind Daryle Lamonica's passing and a key interception by George Atkinson to upset the Cleveland Browns 34-20 in a nationally televised National Football League game Monday night.

The victory moved Oakland into a first place tie with Kansas City Chiefs in the Western Division of the American Football Conference. Both teams are now 2-1.

The Browns moved to the Raiders three-yard line as they continued a 77-yard drive engineered late in the third quarter, but a delay of game penalty stopped the drive and forced the Browns to settle for Rosenblatt's 14-yard field goal.

Marv Hubbard ran twice for 34 yards for Oakland and Lamonica completed two passes to Chester, the final one for 15 yards to cut the lead to 20-17.

George Atkinson intercepted a Nelsen pass at the Browns 41 and ran to the 28 before being brought down by Bo Scott. A face-masking penalty by Bo Scott moved the ball to the 13. Moments later, Clarence Scott was called for holding. Advancing the ball to the five, Clarence Davis ran it on the next play to put Oakland in the front, 24-20.

Big Eight Leads

Various guidelines are used by various conferences to show that they're the toughest, but if you go on the basis of unbeaten teams, the nod after four weeks of the 1971 college football season goes to the Big Eight.

The Big Eight is the only major conference with as many as four undefeated teams at this stage with Nebraska and Colorado showing 4-0 marks and Oklahoma and Iowa State logging 3-0 records.

There are only two other major conferences with more than one unbeaten team — the Southeastern Conference with Alabama 4-0, Georgia 4-0 and Auburn 3-0, and the Atlantic Coast Conference with surprising Duke and North Carolina both boasting 4-0 records.

The Big Ten (Michigan 4-0), Pacific-8 (Washington 4-0), Southwest (Texas 3-0) and the Western Athletic Conference (Arizona State 3-0) are the major leagues with only one unbeaten team in their ranks.

Southern Cal coach John McKay was as much unimpressed by his Trojans' tackling as he was impressed by Oklahoma's runners in the Sooners' 33-20 victory Saturday in a game in which OU attempted only one pass, an incomplete one, but ran for 516 yards.

"If we play like this Stanford will beat us 55-0," quoted McKay after the game.

Branch Excites Crowd

Colorado sprinter Clifford Branch has run back three punts for touchdowns in the Buffs' first four games and CU coach Eddie Crowder admits he gets excited everytime Branch takes a punt.

"But that's because I don't know whether he'll drop it or score a touchdown," he adds with a grin.

Nebraska football has made the Congressional Record with Nebraska Rep. Charles Thone entering into the Record of Sept. 28 the NU domination of the wire service polls last week, excerpts from a column by Dick Cullum of Minneapolis and an editorial from the Norfolk Daily News based on Cullum's column dealing with the Huskers being No. 1 and the reaction of their fans.

Proving there's nothing like a tight pennant race is what a baseball fan's appetite is the fact that Los Angeles and San Francisco, who battled down to the final night before deciding the National League West Division crown, showed the largest attendance gains in baseball this season.

The Dodgers' attendance was up by 367,452 and the Giants' figures were up by 381,879 over a year ago. National League attendance showed a gain of 670,887 over 1970 while the American League was down by 214,631.

Reynolds' Condition Questioned

The Roanoke, Va. Times in picking Nebraska to repeat as Big Eight champion says "The running backs will be Kit Kinney and Bobby Reynolds." All Nebraska fans would agree Reynolds was great in his day, but the last time we saw him he appeared to be a little out of shape.

In introducing evangelist Billy Graham to newsmen at a press conference in Texas Stadium, Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry remarked: "Billy's lucky. His team has only one quarterback and he knows who it is. And if I had his quarterback, I'd have no problem either."

While at St. Louis and Philadelphia, the Los Angeles Dodgers' Richie Allen gained a reputation for often being late to the ball park and sometimes didn't bother to show up at all.

Recently before the Dodgers' annual Father-Son game, Maury Wills, who was managing the Sons' team, quipped, "I've got two of Richie's boys on the team and both would be in the starting lineup, but I can't be sure they'll make it on time."

Pitching Still Gives Giants Edge In Playoffs Says Fox

Pittsburgh (P) — Nelson Briles took heat treatment on his right high Juan Marichal played catch with coach Ossie Virgil, managers Danny Murtaugh and Charlie Fox sat in rocking chairs and talked with reporters.

This was all the action Monday as the Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants rested for Tuesday's third game in the best-of-five National League playoffs. The teams are tied 1-1, with the rest of the series — a series of many games as necessary — scheduled for Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium.

The 28-year-old Briles, a spot starter and reliever in Pittsburgh's drive to the Eastern Division championship, was Murtaugh's pitching choice in the third game.

Briles said that his right thigh stiffened during three innings of pitching last Thursday in Philadelphia.

"I don't expect it to bother me," said Briles, who came to the Pirates last winter from the St. Louis Cardinals. He posted an 8-4 record with one save. A veteran of World Series competition with the Cardinals — he won in 1967 and lost in 1968 — the right hander says he doesn't feel any special pressure.

The Pirates lost the playoff opener 5-4 with Steve Blass the starter, and won the second game Sunday 9-4 although starter Dock Ellis only lasted five innings.

"Briles," says Murtaugh "did the job coming down the stretch. He's earned the third job on merit."

The Pirates are depending on their slugging prowess for an edge over the 32-year-old Marichal, an 18-game winner this season as the Giants won the Western title on the last day of the season behind the righthander.

While the rest of the Giants rested from their trip east, Marichal reported to the ball park. "I decided to play catch and get the feel of the ball in my hand."

Marichal, who injured a hip Sept. 26 in a collision with Cincinnati's Lee May, said he still doesn't feel 100 per cent but that the hip is okay.

San Francisco manager Charlie Fox makes no secret of the fact that he feels the Giants have the edge because they have Marichal and right-hander Gaylord Perry.

"In any given contest it's who has the pitching," Fox said, as he rocked alongside Murtaugh in the Pittsburgh manager's office.

You can have all the hitting you want, just give me the pitchers. I don't believe in that psychological edge for Pittsburgh. I've got the edge, I've got Marichal."

Fox could have a bigger pitching edge than he realizes. Murtaugh disclosed that Ellis, the Pirates' 19 game winner, has elbow trouble and may not pitch again in the playoffs, or the World Series if the Pirates should win the National League pennant.

NU-Missouri Game Seen As Brotherly Scrap

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's upcoming Big Eight opener Saturday at Missouri was compared Monday to a backyard fight between two brothers.

"Somebody asked me what I thought about the game," Nebraska assistant coach Jim Walden related at the weekly Extra Point Club Luncheon. "And I told them it would be a lot like two brothers fighting in their backyard."

"When you start fighting in the family, no one is really frightened of you."

The Husker coach, who watched Missouri lose to Army, 22-6, Saturday for their third loss in four starts this season, added, "When you start conference play, things that have happened before have a way of erasing themselves."

Walden also figured the Tigers might have been looking past Army a bit, but added, "They won't be caught looking elsewhere this week."

NU head coach Bob Devaney, admitting that the Tigers have gotten "off to a slow start with trouble getting their offense to jell," pointed out, "One thing that has to concern us is that their defense has been so great against us that they present their offense with excellent field position."

"If an offense keeps getting the ball in good field position, it often can make an offense good."

But the Husker coach doesn't feel getting his players ready mentally will be a problem this week.

"I think all we have to do is tell them that we're playing Missouri," he said. "Missouri beat the heck out of us the last time we played down there. The score was only 17-7, but we were never in the game."

"We should be ready mentally."

With the exception of linebacker Bill Sloey, Devaney said the Huskers should also be ready physically with only center Doug Dumler and defensive tackle Larry Jacobson being slowed at the present time with knee injuries.

"But we figure they'll be ready by Saturday," Devaney added.

Reflecting on the Huskers' fourth straight

win of the season, a 42-6 triumph over Utah State, Devaney called it "a well played game with the exception of penalties."

The Huskers had eight penalties for 90 yards, most of them for offensive holding and clipping.

"We've got one of the best punt returners in the nation in Johnny Rodgers," Devaney observed, "But it's almost a waste of time to work on the punt return these days because of clipping penalties."

By VIRGIL PARKER

Gretna and David City continue to run 1-2 in the Class C high school top ten football ratings this week, while Albion takes its turn at the head of the class as the B division plays another chorus of musical chairs.

Gretna clings to a slim advantage in Class C on the basis of the result of the only game the two top contenders have played against a common foe. Gretna toppled Waverly, 13-0, while David City escaped with a narrow 16-14 triumph.

But David City has been playing the role of the giant killer and one more success will surely move the Scouts up.

David City has tangled with all Class B opponents. In their third game the Scouts knocked off Wahoo, a top ten Class B club at the time, and then followed with a victory over Schuyler, which the previous

Concordia Eyes Renewal Of Battle With Dana

... SERIES SHOWS CLOSE GAMES

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

To say Concordia's rivalry against Dana is colorful and exciting would be an understatement according to coach John Seavers.

Seavers, Concordia's head grid coach, points out that the Blair school is rich in Danish Lutheran tradition while his school is rich in German Lutheran tradition. And in the last three years the meetings of these two colleges have resulted in scores of 7-0, 0-0 and 9-6.

The Bulldogs lead the series, 32-12-4 but Seavers remembers the Seward school's games with the Vikings the past three years which his team has won except for the tie.

"We completed a pass for a touchdown in the last three minutes to win the 7-0 ball game," Seavers said. "Then last year Clare Wiltse kicked a 30-yard field goal in the last 30 seconds enabling us to win."

The Vikings have bounced back from two straight losses to capture their last two starts and this impresses Seavers. "Yankton beat them (Dana), 30-7, at home while Yankton whipped us, 55-19, on the road," noted Seavers.

"They are a young ball club but are solid defensively."

Last weekend Dana stopped Westmar on the one to preserve

Binning Heads Shrine Tilt

By VIRGIL PARKER

J. Kenneth Binning of Lincoln has been named General Manager of the Nebraska Shrine Bowl all-star football game, effective immediately.

The post was vacant during the past year when co-general chairmen Lou Roper and Earl Stewart also handled the manager's duties for the 13th annual contest.

The responsibility is not new to Binning. The recently retired president and general manager of Carl A. Anderson, Inc. of Omaha served as general chairman of the annual charity football game in 1962 and '63.

Binning is a past president of Hillcrest Country Club, a former trustee of Cedars Home for Children, and is a life member of Sertoma International.

The new Shrine game GM has been active for many years in various functions of Sesostris Shrine Temple and was a representative at large to the Shrine Imperial Council sessions held in San Francisco in 1966.

Roper and Stewart are expected to continue as co-chairmen for the event. T. H. Lundt of Lincoln, who managed the Shrine Bowl office for the '71 game, has been named Assistant General Manager and will continue to direct the office operation.

California's Water Project To Begin Pumping Thursday

Bakersfield, Calif. (UPI) — With the push of a button, Gov. Ronald Reagan will start Thursday a massive project designed to bring cool river waters from Northern California to the arid lands of Southern California.

The State Water Project, as the 665-mile, man-made waterway is known, is aimed at helping balance nature's inequities by carrying water over the Tehachapi Mountains from the north, where there is ample rainfall, to the south, where there is not.

When Reagan pushes the button at the Edmonston Pumping Plant, 80,000-horsepower pumps will begin lifting water nearly 2,000 feet up the side of the Tehachapis.

The water will begin flowing at the rate of 150,000 gallons a minute, enough to fill eight average backyard swimming pools. Later it will pick up speed. The water will be stored in holding areas south of the mountains. The first Northern California water will enter Southern California reservoirs by early December.

2,000,000 Gallons A Minute

In 20 years the system is to deliver two million gallons of water to Southern California every minute. The Tehachapi pumping plant will push two million acre feet of Northern California water over the Tehachapis every year — twice as much as urban areas in the south now receive from the salinity-plagued Colorado River. An acre foot is a measurement representing the amount of water needed to cover one acre to a depth of one foot. The Colorado has been the metropolitan coastal region's principal supply, but eventually much of this will revert to Arizona under court order.

$10 Billion Ultimately

Expected to cost $2.8 billion, the project, begun 20 years ago, ultimately will cost about $10 billion including interest.

Water destined for Southern California comes from the Feather River headwaters about 100 miles north of the state capital of Sacramento. Formerly this water flowed into the ocean.

The northern keystone is 770-foot-high Oroville Dam on the Feather River.

By 1973 the system will consist of 21 dams with a capacity of storing 6.8 million acre feet of water.

The water will flow to 120 cities and municipal water agencies in Southern California, insuring enough water there for well into the 21st century, state officials say.

The Edmonston pumping plant is regarded as an unprecedented engineering achievement — able to lift more water a higher distance than any plant before it.

From Edmonston the water will be carried across the mountains through an 11-mile series of tunnels and pipelines.

the amounts depend on the decisions of the Postal Rate Commission, which must approve rate increases. The current rate took effect in May on a temporary basis.

James W. Hargrove, in a Washington Evening Star interview, said he hopes the next price boost in stamps will be for only a penny — bringing the price of first-class letters from 8 to 9 cents and air mail from 11 to 12 cents.

Other classes of mail would also be affected, he said, but be offset by use of new money-saving devices.
